

New Allied Blows Expected By Nazis

STOCKHOLM (AP)—New Allied offensives overshadowing the Italian invasion in scope are expected by German military experts to be launched soon, dispatches from Berlin said today.

They view western France, target of ceaseless Allied aerial softening-up blows, as the most likely point for the next Allied blow, but claim they are prepared there as well as in the Balkans for any attack.

Japs Hold Italians

NEW YORK (AP)—All Italians in Japanese-dominated Thailand have been placed under "protective arrest" in their homes and their telephones and radio sets confiscated, the Berlin radio said today, quoting a dispatch from Bangkok.

Lone Attu Jap Finally Captured

ATTU ISLAND (Delayed, AP)—Another ragged and nearly starved survivor of Japan's Aleutians invading force fell into the hands of U.S. troops on this furthest Pacific outpost of North America Wednesday.

The prisoner, the first taken since Aug. 24, surrendered after soldiers had chased him into a fox hole. He had been living like an animal in the rugged, treeless hills for more than three months.

All but a handful of the Attu Japanese were wiped out by the amphibious force which regained the island in May.

Soldier Convicted

SASKATOON (CP)—Tr. James W. Clark, 20, of Hamilton, Ont., today was convicted of manslaughter in the verdict of a jury which reduced the charge from one of murder.

He was charged following the death of Tr. Arthur E. Clifford, 19, of Toronto, fatally stabbed at Dundurn Military Camp July 7.

ARMSTRONG, B.C. (CP)—Old man winter has already struck in some places in British Columbia, with eight degrees of frost registered in some areas near Armstrong last week. Farmers fear some damage has been done, particularly to vines, tomatoes and the more tender type of vegetables.

Squeeze In Greece

CAIRO (AP)—German troops have taken over all of Greece, including zones formerly occupied by Italian forces, the Hellenic News Agency reported today. Italian troops were ordered to gather in coastal towns and await orders, the agency said. Their heavy equipment was taken from them by force.

LONDON (CP)—A sweeping comb-out of 1,500 occupations to provide men for the forces was announced today, along with a change in the system of deferments which practically eliminates younger men from civil service jobs.

Samos Greek Again

ISTANBUL (AP)—The Aegean island of Samos, occupied by the Italians during the first part of the Greek war, has been returned to Greek sovereignty, it was reported here. The island, 42 miles southwest of the Turkish city of Izmir, was returned voluntarily following the Italian armistice, the report said.

Soviets Advance in Ukraine; Land Troops at Novorossisk

LONDON (CP)—The German high command in a broadcast communique today said the Red Army had made a large-scale landing attempt in the Novorossisk area where the Germans still hold a small bridgehead in the Caucasus and that fighting still was going on as German forces attempted to wipe out the landing parties.

The announcement admitted the loss of Mariupol, port on the northern shore of the sea of Azov which the Russians announced Friday night had fallen to their swiftly-advancing southern army.

Intimating the Russians may be preparing still another offensive—on the northern front in the Leningrad sector—another broadcast said shock troops and reconnaissance activity was on the increase there.

Fresh Russian deployments, particularly on the front east of Leningrad, "leaves the conclusion that the Soviets planned a new attack in this area," the broadcast said.

Driving Germans On 400-mile Front

MOSCOW (AP)—Battering the fleeing German legions along a 400-mile front from the Sea of Azov to Bryansk at the northern end of the Ukraine, Red Army troops have impelled the entire Nazi defence system east of the Dnieper River and are threatening the sole remaining escape corridor of the Crimean garrisons.

Sledge-hammer Russian blows reported today turned the German retreat in many places into a rout.

Mariupol, important port of the Sea of Azov, and Chaplino, rail junction 60 miles from Dnieperopetrovsk—both strategic German strongpoints in the southern Ukraine—were stormed and taken by the Soviets.

Russian naval forces from the Sea of Azov and airborne troops participated in the capture of Mariupol.

Volnovakha, on the Stalino-Mariupol railway and Barvenkovo, midway between Stalino and Khar'kov, also were captured in the day's advance. Fall of Chaplino posed an immediate threat to Zaporozhe, capture of which would in turn endanger the whole German southern line.

HEADED FOR GOMEL

In the north, the Germans fell back from their Derna River defences near Novgorod-Seversky. There the Red Army troops apparently were heading for Gomel, 100 miles to the northwest. This breach of the Nazi lines opened the way for an encircling drive

Alberta Miner Quits Job; Gets Jail Term, Fine

DRUMHELLER, Alta. (CP)—The first conviction of its kind under National Selective Service regulations in Canada was registered in the Drumheller court when Sidney Vanattan of Toronto was sentenced to six months' imprisonment and a fine of $100 or, in default, an additional two months' imprisonment, by Magistrate A. G. Bond.

Vanattan was charged with terminating his employment at the Maple Leaf mine without permission of the Selective Service. He was brought back from Toronto on a warrant to face the charge, which was prosecuted by L. G. Caswell of Drumheller.

Witnesses testified the accused had presented himself here as a coal miner. Documents produced by the prosecution showed that when the emergency appeal went out for miners Vanattan filled in the necessary forms as a miner, and registered himself as such with the Selective Service at Drumheller. On the strength of these, Mr. Caswell proved he was given a job at the Maple Leaf Mine.

BACK TO TORONTO

After signing on at the mine and being cared for with board and room, the accused failed to show up for work, and returned to Toronto, where he was arrested.

Vanattan claimed that on his return to Toronto he entered into an agreement with the Selective Service office there to pay back the fare advanced by the government to send him to Drumheller.

The prosecutor argued this alleged agreement had no bearing on the charge and he was upheld by the magistrate.

In passing sentence, the magistrate told the accused there was no excuse for him not knowing the Selective Service regulations.

These regulations, he said, are a pillar in the numerous endeavors for the successful prosecution of the war.

Two additional charges of false pretences against the accused were dismissed.

'Ghost Voice' Again

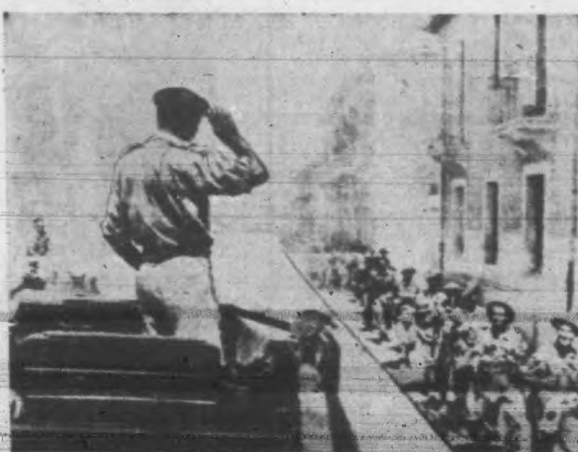

NEW YORK (AP)—A "ghost voice" is bothering German news broadcasters again, U.S. Federal Communications Commission monitors reported today. The voice interrupted a leading Berlin news broadcast with such remarks as "Hitler's army on the eastern front is routed," and "the Russians are driving the beaten Hitler army before them."

LONDON (CP)—P.O. Alan Carlson shot down a Nazi Junkers-52 transport plane in a sweep near Paris Friday, it was announced today. It was the first enemy aircraft destroyed by the 21-year-old Calgary Mustang pilot. The Nazi exploded in a field after it had been set afire by a burst from 300 yards.

5 Italian Battleships Now Held By Allies; 1 Sunk By Nazi Bombs

(Eyewitness Story Page 2.) NEW YORK (AP)—The 35,000-ton Italian battleship Vittorio Veneto has arrived at Malta and surrendered to the Allies, the BBC reported today, quoting a Reuters dispatch.

This made the fifth Italian capital ship reported to have reached Malta. The BBC broadcast was recorded by NBC.

Cruisers, Other Ships Also Now at Malta

By E. D. BALL LONDON (AP)—All seven of Italy's battleships were accounted for today, five of them being safe in Allied hands at Malta.

Another, the modern 35,000-ton Roma, was reported to have reached neutral sanctuary at the Spanish island of Palma de Mallorca in the Balearics, while one was sunk by German bombers in a fierce 30-minute air-sea battle off the island of Corsica, a dispatch from Allied headquarters in north Africa announced.

An Allied communique announced only that "the battleships, some cruisers and other units of the Italian fleet" had arrived off Malta, but Associated Press dispatches disclosed that four battleships, nine cruisers, six destroyers and numerous smaller units had safely run the German gauntlet.

Two of the battleships delivered to the Allies at Malta, the dispatches said, were the Andrea Doria and the Giulio Cesare, both ancient 23,622-ton warships which were reconstructed and modernized in 1937. Each carries 10 12-inch guns as its main armament.

Two other battleships reported to have reached Malta today, along with nine cruisers, six destroyers and smaller units, were not identified.

Two Italian cruisers, two destroyers and two smaller units were reported to have reached the British base at Gibraltar Friday, while a dispatch today from the neutral Spanish port of Palma de Mallorca, in the Balearics, told of the arrival there of 12 units of the Italian fleet.

An Associated Press dispatch from La Linea, Spain, however, cast doubt today on the reported arrivals at Gibraltar. Eyewitnesses said there were no Italian vessels in Gibraltar Bay today.

The German radio mentioned only seven ships as reaching Palma and identified the vessels as an Italian cruiser and six destroyers, and said they were interned by Spanish authorities.

An Associated Press dispatch from Berne also said seven Italian warships, including the 35,000-ton battleship Roma, had reached the Balearics.

Tanks Beaten Off, British Drive On As Nazis Retreat

By EDWARD KENNEDY

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NORTH AFRICA (AP)—The U.S. 5th Army has seized the port of Salerno and thrown back several more German armored attacks to deepen its wedge in the Naples area, Allied headquarters announced today while chaos reigned throughout Italy, and Berlin reported pitched battles between Germans and Italians in the north.

Smashing aerial assaults have prevented "the enemy from getting reinforcements over badly-battered highways and railroads" to the Naples sector, and a large portion of Italy's capital naval strength, including battleships and cruisers, reached the safety of Malta, official reports said.

Crack Nazi armored units lunged in several fierce counterattacks against Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's British and American invaders at Salerno Friday, but these were broken and the Allies drove inland.

Several pockets of enemy resistance have been wiped out, and prisoners now total several hundred, all Germans. There are no Italians reported fighting in this area. Salerno (population 50,000) is one of the larger provincial cities of southern Italy.

Besides knocking out Nazi reinforcement lines in a 60-mile arc around Naples headquarters aerial reports said, Allied planes attacked German convoys moving northward toward the Naples-Salerno districts, indicating a German withdrawal from areas farther south to escape possible entrapment and throw greater weight against the 5th Army bridgehead.

Units of the 5th Army bore the brunt of the German resistance during landings at Salerno, and stiff fighting raged on the beaches. Five Nazi counterblows were blunted Thursday.

British units encountered comparatively little resistance in their landings some distance away, but later were attacked by German tanks, which they repulsed.

"Steady progress has been made by the invaders since the start of the campaign, it was announced.

Navy Backs Landing at Salerno

Naval guns supported ground troops at Salerno. The bridgehead now is firmly established, headquarters declared.

Meanwhile in the south the 8th Army met little opposition and despite demolitions went ahead more rapidly, now holding practically all the territory south of the bottleneck formed by the Gulf of Squillace and the Gulf of Sante Eufemia.

(NBC correspondent Merrill Mueller in a broadcast said the 8th Army, made up of British and Canadian troops, had advanced 35 miles northward at such a pace that it is beginning to overtake the retreating Germans.)

The British force at Taranto completed occupation of that naval base and town. Most of the Germans were reported to have evacuated the city before the landing, and the population was said to have cheered the British troops.

(Radio France at Algiers said British forces were fanning out in three directions from Taranto.)

Italians did not oppose a small Allied force landing on the island of Ventotene off Naples, but the Germans there surrendered only after a fierce fight, and 91 were captured.

Headquarters said the Germans had many natural advantages over the attackers in the Naples area landings, and were prepared to meet the invasion, which they had fully anticipated.

(The German communique today said the Italian naval base of Pola on the Yugoslav shore of the Adriatic Sea, and the island of Rhodes in the Dodecanese had surrendered to the Germans.)

("Our troops have marched into Milan, Turin and Padua," it said, while a broadcast of the German news agency Transocean reported "the major part of the Italian peninsula is under the control of German armed forces." German headquarters claimed a counter-attack had regained some ground in bitter fighting in the Salerno area.

(A British broadcast heard by CBS said Berlin had announced annulment of Croatia's treaty with Italy guaranteeing Croatia's independence, and cancellation of the offer of the Croat crown to the Italian Prince of Aosta. It added the Záhreb radio had appealed to Croats "to support the Germans in their struggle against the Italians.")

The Germans were throwing more aviation into the battle of Italy, and attempted to bomb the 5th Army troops.

There was no official information here about conditions in Italy other than Allied-occupied areas, but broadcasts from Germany and other European countries formed a fantastic picture of the situation.

By these accounts, the Germans are installed solidly in northern and central Italy, with Milan and Rome surrendered to them after battles with Italian troops.

Latest reports said the Italians still were resisting the Nazis at Turin, and that four companies of German shock troops had been wiped out there.

The Germans said a new puppet Italian Fascist government had taken over power, but the indications were it would get little popular support for any program to continue Italy in the war.

While many reports conflicted, one thing seemed certain—Italy has become just another country occupied by the Germans who apparently propose to make it a major battlefield.

Good Crowds See English Soccer

LONDON (CP)—British sportsmen, bucked up by the surrender of Italy, thronged football fields today to enjoy a bit of relaxation before knuckling down again to the bigger business of war.

The biggest crowd, 30,000, jammed Windsor Park in Belfast to cheer Ireland in its 4-2 victory over the army in the season's first representative match. More than 8,000 crowded London's Selhurst Park to watch the R.A.F. whitewash the civil defence team 6-0 in another representative game.

Burnley, Sunderland, Aston Villa and Blackpool continued to set a hot pace in the Northern League, each recording its third victory since the season started without loss. Aston Villa defeated 10,000 with a 4-2 win over Wolverhampton Wolves, while Blackpool trounced Manchester City 6-2. Burnley defeated Bury 5-1 and Sunderland beat Hartlepool 3-2.

Quake In Japan Kills or Injures 1,400

NEW YORK (AP)—Domei news agency in a Tokyo broadcast said today 1,400 persons had been killed or seriously injured at Tottori by Japan's most severe earthquake in ten years.

The Domei broadcast was heard in London and recorded by NBC from a BBC report.

Office of war information said today a Tokyo broadcast reported a "rather severe" earthquake shook southwestern Japan Friday which killed many persons.

Great damage was reported in the city of Tottori, capital of Inaba province, with a population (1930) of 32,600.

The quake was strong enough to be felt in the cities of Kobe, Osaka and Hiroshima, where houses rocked on their foundations and people fled to the open. There was little damage in those three cities, Tokyo reported.

The Domei dispatch said many houses collapsed in Tottori, which is nearly 400 miles west of Tokyo, and that rescue parties were digging in the ruins for victims.

B.C. Industrial Payroll Last Year $302,892,946

B.C.'s soaring war industries had a payroll last year of $302,892,946, an unprecedented total and an increase of $63,367,487 over the previous year, it is shown in the annual report of the Department of Labor, made public today by the minister, Hon. Geo. S. Pearson.

Greatest increase was again in the shipbuilding industry, the payroll for which jumped by $36,560,000 over 1941. The contracting industry's payroll was up $15,000,000; lumber and metal trades industries both were up $4,500,000.

Decreases were noted in only two industries — metal-mining, down $2,000,000 and printing and publishing, down $83,000. Monthly employment average rose to a new high last year, showing a total of 143,760 persons employed, compared with 110,771 in 1941.

Average weekly wage for adult male wage-earners rose to $35.24 in 1942, a gain of $4.57 a week over 1941 and establishing a new high in the department's records. "Production demands created the necessity for longer hours in most vital industries," says the report. "While in some instances the average maintained the level of the year previous, or decreased slightly, the trend generally was upward, with a resultant increase in the average weekly working hours for all employees to 48.12 hours as against 46.90 hours for 1941."

Shipbuilding payroll jumped from $3,941,111 in 1940 to $54,309 in 1941 to $47,203,906 in 1942 and this year promises to be even higher. Next highest payroll was in the lumber industries — $43,935,333.

Breweries showed their highest payroll in years, but this year it may be down, because of Dominion government restrictions. Last

R.A.F. Flier Sees Nazis Sink Italian Ship

Big Sea-Air Battle as Fleet Runs to Malta Under Hot Attack

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, NORTH AFRICA (AP) — German bombers sank one battleship in a half-hour battle off Corsica, Allied headquarters announced today.

The bombers attacked in the Strait of Bonifacio soon after a flotilla of warships had escaped from Nazi-dominated ports in northern Italy.

The battleship victim was accompanied at the time by several other Italian warships, including cruisers and destroyers, which later made Malta safely.

An eyewitness account of the fight was brought here by an R.A.F. pilot, Wing Cmdr. H. Law-Wright of South Ash Bowden, Cheshire.

The battleship sank after being split open by bombs from the planes of Italy's erstwhile ally.

The Nazis attacked while the warships were far beyond the range of protection from Allied fighter planes. Law-Wright was piloting an R.A.F. Marauder on reconnaissance and was keeping the flotilla in sight as it steamed southward to an Allied port.

SHIPS OPEN FIRE

"The first sign of attack we saw was when the ships opened fire," he said. "For a moment we thought they were firing at us and we took violent evasive action. Then we saw flak burst far above us, obviously aimed at a high-flying aircraft."

The Marauder flew out of range so the Italian naval gunners could have a free hand.

Then, Law-Wright continued, "we saw an enormous explosion on one of the battleships. Creamy white smoke went up about 3,000 or 4,000 feet."

The battleship sunk was of the largest Italian class.

Law-Wright said his crew saw four bombs aimed at a destroyer, but they missed.

"The smoke on the battleship subsided and it looked as if it were getting under way again. Throughout the attack, the ships had taken excellent evasive action and their anti-aircraft fire was accurate."

BREAKS IN TWO

"We flew over the ships and took a look at the damage done. We arrived just as the battleship was sinking. Under a big column of smoke we saw the stern under water and the bow sticking up. The ship appeared to break in two and folded up with the control tower and keel forming a 'V' as the ship slowly disappeared."

"We watched rescue operations for five minutes and then turned towards the rest of the fleet, which was regaining formation. At this point we encountered a Junkers-88 reconnaissance aircraft. We got in a good burst and our fire persuaded him to head for home."

Reconnaissance aircraft saw a Regio class cruiser and six destroyers steaming around a large patch of oil looking for survivors. Two German planes renewed the attack from between 7,000 and 10,000 feet.

"Every ship was putting up accurate anti-aircraft fire," Law-Wright said. "It seemed impossible for any aircraft to live through it. One of the Germans dived at a steep angle apparently out of control."

Before leaving the vessels, Law-Wright signalled "Aur Revolver," which the Italians acknowledged.

Italians Fought Nazis at Rome For Several Hours

LONDON (CP) — A Nazi communique today claimed that German troops, consolidating their positions in the face of a general Allied southern invasion, had captured the Italian naval base of Pola on the Yugoslav side of the Adriatic and the island of Rhodes in the Dodecanese group. The Nazi broadcast also said Nazi troops had stormed into Milan, Turin and Padua, northern Italian industrial cities, but the broadcast added that the German divisions had been forced to fight "fiercely by Communists" at Milan and Turin.

SALERNO BATTLE

"The major part of the Italian peninsula is under the control of German armed forces," the broadcast said, but reported grim fighting was in progress against British and United States forces in the Salerno area.

Meanwhile, dispatches from Madrid said Italian troops had fought the Germans in the suburbs of Rome for several hours Friday before an agreement was reached whereby Nazi troops were to occupy the German embassy, the Rome radio station and the telephone exchange.

A number of shells fell within Rome itself during the fighting, including several which fell in the Piazza di Espana in the heart of the city, the Madrid dispatches said.

The Germans said Gen. Calvi di Bergolo, King Emmanuel's son-in-law, had been named Italian commander of Rome with a single division of Italian troops placed at his disposal to maintain order.

TROOPS OUTSIDE CITY

Swiss dispatches reported most of the German troops remained outside the city, but had taken control of key radio and telephone centres.

The Swiss dispatch quoted unconfirmed reports that the King and Premier Badoglio had escaped to a southern Italian village held by the Allies.

(A broadcast by the Italian news agency Stefani, whose transmitter is believed to be in German hands, quoted a Di Bergolo proclamation indicating the Germans were attempting to classify the capital as an open city. The broadcast recorded by the U.S. Office of War Information, quoted him as saying: "Troops of the garrison and police forces at my disposal for the protection of the open city of Rome will establish posts along the line of demarcation of the open city of Rome.")

Swiss reports said German troops had occupied all principal posts along the Swiss-French frontier and that all railroad traffic had been suspended.

A Swiss dispatch from the Italian frontier said all of Lombardy, in northern Italy, was in German hands except the cities of Varese and Como.

Another Berlin broadcast said the number of Italians who have laid down their arms in Italy had risen to 200,000.

Community Chest Objective $85,000, Drive Opens Sept. 27

Victoria's Community Chest, which makes its appeal to the hearts of citizens through their pocketbooks to provide services essential to the welfare of the area, seeks an objective of $85,000 in its campaign opening Sept. 27 and continuing to Oct. 5 this year. Joined with the chest in the drive is the Salvation Army.

The figure is $5,000 above that of 1942. The increase is necessary to meet the growing social service needs of a community in which population is climbing and changing continually under the shift of war needs.

Each budget of the 21 member agencies has been carefully scrutinized to avoid any extravagance. Collections will be made on the usual audited basis with a minimum of overhead expense.

Patronage for the campaign has been granted by His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor and Mrs. W. C. Woodward, J. W. Spencer is honorary chairman, with R. W. Mayhew, M.P., honorary vice-chairman.

STRONG COMMITTEE

F. E. Winslow, who has given direction to the drive in previous years, is again president of the chest committee, with J. Harold Wilson campaign chairman and S. K. Campbell and C. C. Simpson vice-chairman.

Honorary treasurer is E. W. McMullen.

Chairman of non-soliciting committees include P. A. Gibbs, auditing; H. G. Benman, advertising; H. B. Dawson, listing; Ralph Matthews, public relations; Raymond Jones, speakers; and John Holroyde, personnel.

In charge of the soliciting groups are: G. H. Stevens, special names; H. W. Sparks, business; Miss Sara Spencer, residential; G. H. Walton, industrial; and S. W. Holmes, public services.

Frank Paulding will again direct the campaign, with Mrs. Kenneth Barr acting as secretary to the executive.

Over half the total objective will be sought from those in the special names group. The allocation for that division is $45,000. Business is asked to contribute $6,500; the residential canvass $20,000; industrial groups $8,500; the public services $3,300; hotels $1,000 and outside districts, $700.

German, Italian Troops In Balkans Reported Fighting

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA (AP) — For the second straight day, heavy bombers from the Middle East returned to the Foggia area Friday across the Italian peninsula opposite Naples, and attacked the satellite landing ground at Palermo, a Cairo communique said. The bombers shot down one of several attacking enemy fighters and bursts were observed in the airport dispersal area.

Allied air forces of the North African command kept up a continual pounding of railway and road junctions, bridges and airfields in the Naples area. Fighter-bombers attacked and destroyed a large number of vehicles on the road north of Lagonero in the south.

In the air offensive the score stood 18 Nazi planes shot down to 10 Allied. It was also announced today that in the Foggia raid Sept. 7 an additional 27 enemy planes were shot down.

The Germans reported bombing Italian warships as they crossed the Mediterranean and claimed they had sunk a battleship and a cruiser.

Victor Emmanuel is still in Rome and is still reigning as King, according to information here.

SCENES OF CHAOS

Chaos is general throughout Italy with the war-weary Italians in most instances putting down their arms, though in some places clashes between German and Italian army units continue.

Clashes between Italians and German occupying forces in the Balkans also took place Friday, according to information received here from German sources, but there also most Italians today had laid down their arms.

From Taranto, the Italian naval base at the heel of the Italian peninsula, came word that Italian units stationed there had overpowered German troops prior to the landing by the British navy early Thursday.

TOWARD ITALY'S HEART

From Taranto, from the Naples area a third of the way up the west coast, and from the Calabria toe in the extreme south, Allied forces now point inward to the heart of Italy.

"The London radio said Friday night that one of the tunnels at the Brenner Pass between Germany and Italy had been damaged by an explosion. No further details were given.

(A dispatch from Bern said Italian resistance in Lombardy in northern Italy had ceased. It reported that an Italian radio broadcast by Gen. Vittorio Ruggieri, commander at Milan, had announced surrender of the city to Field Marshal Erwin Rommel, commander of German forces in the north and one-time leader of the Africa Corps which was crushed in north Africa.)

Budan Singh was sentenced to 30 days when he appeared in Saanich police court today on a charge of indecently exposing his person.

Anglican Synod Asks Salary Increase

TORONTO (CP) — Unanimous on the question of granting as high stipends as possible to married clergy in the missionary dioceses of the church, the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada stumbled for several hours over a matter of procedure.

Debate followed the introduction of a motion by Rev. Leonard A. Dixon in presenting the report of the missionary society of the church at Friday's session. Canon Dixon moved, in effect, that married missionary clergymen in the western dioceses be paid a minimum stipend of not less than $1,100.

This was followed by the introduction of an amendment by Rev. G. M. Luxton, Toronto, that the amount should be increased to $1,200.

Several members of the upper and lower houses of the synod took part in a protracted debate in which the hardships and problems of missionary clergy were set forth. All were unanimous the higher stipend was desirable, provided the necessary funds could be obtained.

EXPANSION PLANS

Most Rev. L. R. Sherman, Archbishop of Rupert's Land, said he was as anxious as the mover of the amendment to see the highest possible stipend was granted, but he urged the matter should be left over until the synod had the full picture of the church's expansion policy before it considered. In moving an amendment to this effect he assured Mr. Luxton the suggested provision of a $1,200 minimum salary would have priority at that time.

12 Die In Crash Of Train and Bus At Aldershot, Ont.

By KATHLEEN REE

ALDERSHOT, Ont. (CP)—A Canadian National Railways passenger train, streaking toward Hamilton at 50 miles an hour, smashed into a stalled bus on the Aldershot level crossing Friday night, killing 12 of its 14 passengers. The other two were injured and today were patients in a hospital in Hamilton, eight miles away.

The Canada Coach Lines bus, bound from nearby Waterdown for Hamilton, was sheared in two by the heavy engine. A rain-soaked pavement is believed to have sent the bus into a skid before it stalled astride the tracks.

Several bodies were found on the cowcatcher of the engine. Others were thrown or carried 300 feet or more along the right of way. It was the worst accident in this district since Christmas night 1934 when 16 persons were killed in a train wreck at Dundas.

The bus driver, Fred Smith of Hamilton, was among those killed. Of the others, four were from Waterdown, four from Hamilton, one from Toronto, one from Ottawa and one from Aldershot.

The two injured are David Gauthier, 16, Ottawa, who suffered head and body lacerations, and R. C. Smith of Toronto, who suffered shock and lacerations. Their condition was believed not serious.

Engineer E. Amory, Toronto, said he saw the bus as it apparently skidded into the path of his train. He applied the brakes and brought the train to a stop as quickly as possible.

When the train jerked to a standstill a quarter mile past the crossing, passengers crowded from the train and saw bodies lying about the right of way. Soldiers and airmen among the passengers immediately began aiding the injured and helping to remove the bodies.

Dr. J. H. Mullin of Hamilton, chief coroner, said an inquest would be held but it might be delayed in order that statements could be obtained from the two injured bus passengers.

But for a twist of circumstances, two other persons might have been aboard the ill-fated bus. Mrs. Frank O'Brien of Waterdown was ready to take the bus but turned back when rain began to fall and decided to wait for a later bus.

Today's WAR NEWS Analysis

By DE WITT MACKENZIE

Associated Press War Analyst

Not since the Anglo-French agony in the summer of 1940 has the world's general public been confronted with such confusion of reports as are surrounding the Italian situation—and small part of this is an artificial fog which is being deliberately created by the desperate Germans.

The situation on the Italian peninsula is, of course, serious but we shouldn't let the confusion raise any doubts in our minds, for we may be sure there is none in the minds of our high command. There are two points to keep well in mind during these hectic days:

1. The Germans are making frantic attempts to delay the Allied occupation of Italy and also to save the Balkans. Propaganda and false reports are being spread by Nazi agents from many points of Europe in an effort to bewilder the Italians and other Axis peoples as well as the Nazis' enemies.

2. The Allies are doing better than all right. There's no occasion for alarm over the Italian position although we must be prepared for bitter fighting.

It seems obvious that the Allied high command fully anticipated German reprisals against the Italians and some smart

Says School Reports Scandalous System

LONDON (CP)—Dr. Charlotte M. Fleming is on record with a statement that will win her almost universal acclaim among students.

To a London educational conference, she lashed the custom of sending a term-end report to parents saying what the teacher thought of the child. That, said Dr. Fleming, was a "scandalous proceeding" used in many cases as an instrument of torture in the hands of unskilled parents.

LONDON (AP)—Lord Louis Mountbatten has been given the acting rank of admiral with his appointment as supreme Allied commander in southeast Asia. It was announced Friday night. He has been an acting vice-admiral with the permanent rank of captain.

moves such as the "occupation" of Rome. The Allied commander-in-chief's action in keeping the armistice secret for five days speaks for itself.

Despite Berlin's efforts Friday to create the impression the Italian navy was in German hands, we have the fine news today that a large part of the fleet has arrived at the big British base of Malta in the Mediterranean and given itself up to the Allies.

Perhaps the knottiest problem which the Allies have to solve is the presence of German troops in Rome. That was a shrewd move on the part of the Nazis, because their eviction may involve military operations which the Allies will dislike to apply to the Eternal City. This is especially true because Vatican City is involved.

Naturally the thought uppermost in most minds is that the unscrupulous Hitler in his desperation intends to try to hold the Pope as a "hostage" if His Holiness is still in Rome.

However, while Hitler has allowed in every imaginable sort of crime, it seems inconceivable that he would dare challenge the world by harming the Pope. What the Nazi chief may be able to do is to exploit this situation so as to hamper the Allied operations to some degree.

All B.C. Residents May Get Chest X-Ray

VANCOUVER (CP)—Plans for an annual chest X-ray for every resident of British Columbia—the first within a few weeks—were outlined to the B.C. Medical Association by Dr. W. H. Hatfield, director of the division of tuberculosis control for the province.

Examinations will be carried out by traveling clinics throughout the province and stationary clinics in Victoria, Vancouver and Tranquille.

Equipment for taking and developing miniature X-ray films has been set up in a specially-designed truck which will be taken direct to war industries, schools and other places where large numbers of persons are gathered.

During the past year 1,421 new cases of tuberculosis were discovered, making a total of more than 8,000 known cases in British Columbia, Dr. Hatfield said.

Edwin Crabbe, 39, Victoria, formerly of Nanaimo, has been promoted from leading seaman to petty officer in R.C.N.R. He is serving at a west coast base of the R.N. A native of Lancashire, England, Crabbe attended schools in England and Victoria. He left his job as a diver to enlist in 1940. He also had worked for the Victoria School Board. A brother is in the army. They are sons of John Crabbe, 1112 Balmoral Rd., Victoria.

R.A.F. Blasts Ports, Sampans In Burma

NEW DELHI (AP)—R.A.F. bombers and fighting planes, taking advantage of a lull in the heavy rains, blasted river shipping and port installations in the Akyab region of Burma Friday, a British communiqué said today.

Dive bombers escorted by fighters bombed and machine-gunned an oil jetty at Satyogya Creek, near Akyab. Bomb hits were scored on buildings south of the jetty and the target area was strafed. Ten large motor boats, a heavily laden cargo boat and three loaded sampans were put out of commission.

On an offensive patrol along the Arakan coast, Beaufighters damaged a number of sampans near Ramree. Others making a run along the Irrawaddy River scored hits on two oil tanks, an oil barge, various river craft at Yenangyang and a pipe line installation at Kyahkye.

Hurricanes swept up behind the Beaufighters to blast a convoy of 100 sampans heading north of Yenangyang. They also scored hits on four barges and a double-decked river steamer. Despite heavy rains and cloud

Man On Street Against Peace Pact For Germany With Hitler or Gang

By Canadian Institute of Public Opinion

TORONTO—Germany, which followed Italy in adopting Fascism, will again have to follow Italy in getting rid of it, before she can talk peace, say Canadians.

Striking unanimity of Canadian opinion was found in a Gallup survey aimed at gauging the mood of the Canadian people towards dicker with the Nazi Party in this, the fifth year of war. To an overwhelming majority of voters, the issue is clear: Germany must, like Italy before her, purge herself of all traces of Nazism before talking peace.

"If Hitler," Gallup reporters asked, "offered to make peace now, disarm completely, and give up all occupied territory providing we allow the Nazi Party to govern Germany, would you approve or disapprove of making such a peace?"

Across Canada, a strong and unequivocal "No" greeted this question. Attitude of Canadians is reflected in these figures: Approve, 9 per cent; disapprove, 87 per cent; undecided, 4 per cent.

This latest survey, coupled with previous ones along similar lines, shows that four years of war does not change the determination of Canadians to have no dealings with Nazi governments, even if such governments surrender all Germany's ill-gotten gains. Since the institute started sampling Canadian opinion two years ago, it has, in issue after issue, presented a variety of theoretical peace propositions to formations on the previous three days, R.A.F. planes attacked enemy troop positions near Maungdaw, putting several gunposts out of action. On the lower Chindwin the British planes sighted a group of sampans and more than 30 of these were sunk or damaged.

One aircraft is missing.

APPROVED BOMBING OF ROME

Just before the news of Italy's surrender was flashed around the world, the Institute completed a survey which showed a big majority of Canadians in favor of repeating bombing attacks on Rome, and an even bigger majority approving the bombing attacks which had already been carried out.

All these surveys show indisputably that Mr. and Mrs. Canadian, after four years of war, are not flagging in their support of the "unconditional surrender" policy laid down by Churchill and Roosevelt.—World Copyright Reserved.

CHILD DELINQUENCY

Unfortunately for the world at large, and children and young people in particular, Mr. M. E. Bird's recipe for the cure of child delinquency has been in practice for some time. The Bible has been left out of schools and Darwin has been taught in the churches; surely with the greatest and most diabolic war in the history of the world in progress very little other comment is necessary.

The teaching of Darwin and its consequent atheism, and the denial of God and His word, must always result in war, famine, pestilence, disease and will finally end in self-destruction for civilization.

Mr. Bird and others of his turn of mind notwithstanding, let us return to the God and the Word of our fathers who built up our nation, lest worse troubles and horrors befall us.

MUSICAL ART SOCIETY

May I, through your paper, bring to the attention of the Victoria public the activities and aims of the Victoria Musical Art Society?

This society is the only musical organization whose aim is primarily to encourage and financially assist the young musicians of our city, many of whom are most worthy of our assistance.

Our intermediate and juvenile groups are both flourishing and enthusiastic, and on the occasions when they have been presented by the senior society were most heartily applauded, both for their sincerity and artistry. The intermediate group has for the past four years given generously of its time for the entertainment of the armed forces.

This past year the society has carried on under great difficulties owing to the stress of our present life, but the cultural forces of art and music have been actively kept alive, a no small task in these busy days. The membership fee is modest, and a

The Drumheller's captain, Lieut. L. P. Denny of Chester, N.S., said "The Sunderland was swooping and diving at the submarine and shooting and the U-boat was firing at the aircraft."

"We opened fire at long range, and Jerry must have had a sharp eye on us. As soon as we started shooting, he dived. The aircraft pounced on him as he went under, and dropped depth charges."

The Drumheller made a straight run over the target, dropping depth charges. The Asdic cabinet reported the submarine was still there and the corvette was turning into position to make another depth charge run when the Lagan arrived on the scene to add the weight of her heavier anti-submarine armament to the attack.

A flood of oil began to spread over the surface of the sea. Pieces of wreckage from the smashed U-boat boiled up through it.

TARGET FOR TODAY

TODAY, Victory is our first and only target. The things of tomorrow—the new shape of Freedom—the new pattern of Security—the new projects for a better world—these will follow when Victory comes. The duty of every Canadian is clear. In this struggle, every gun counts, and every dollar that helps to buy a gun counts, too. Victory depends on how earnestly each one of us carries out the urgent undertakings set forth in this resolution:

I Resolve... that I will work and save and lend to the limit of my capacity to support the defenders of my freedom on the fighting fronts of the world.

I Resolve... that I will forego luxuries and comforts now to make sure of future security for myself, my loved ones, and my fellow countrymen.

I Resolve... that I will subscribe for Victory Bonds when they are offered, and will hold on to them until the war is over.

I Resolve... that I will buy War Savings Certificates and Stamps regularly, and keep them invested for the duration.

I Resolve... that my life insurance, which aids each Victory Loan and will help to further the measures for national re-adjustment after the war by providing individual independence, will be kept in force, for my own and the nation's benefit.

Your bonds, your war savings, and your life insurance are three safeguards for the future which should be maintained out of present income, even at the cost of personal sacrifice. Each has its protective value. Each means future delivery of money to you or yours. Each is as safe as the Dominion of Canada itself. Every dollar saved today is a down payment on security and peace of mind.

To Consult His Party

NOT EVEN THE MOST RADICAL PARTISAN will seriously argue that Canada should be disturbed by two months of political campaigning unless it can be proved beyond all question that a general election is absolutely necessary. But there are certain rumblings in various parts of the country which obviously have reached the sensitive ears of Mr. Mackenzie King. His training and instinct will not permit him to ignore them; and he can interpret the Canadian scene better than most men.

On this account Mr. King proposes to meet the Liberal members of the House of Commons in caucus and afterwards consult with delegates to a meeting of the National Liberal Federation. Not only is this the correct party procedure; it conforms to the best traditions of democratic and responsible government. Like Mr. Churchill, the Prime Minister of Canada is a "creature of Parliament," a staunch believer in its supremacy, while the exigencies and exactions of war-time blunt the point of the captious charge of "government by order-in-council." And Mr. King is aware of the elaborate preparations to which both the Progressive Conservative Party and the Co-operative Commonwealth Federation have assiduously devoted their energies in recent months.

Back in last December the official opposition selected Mr. John Bracken to lead it in what it hopes will be a successful bid for office and power when the people next go to the polls. Although the ex-Premier of Manitoba has delivered many speeches in many parts of the country in his new capacity, the Canadian people are still more or less in the dark as to what changes in public policy he would advocate to a Parliament in which his Progressive Conservative Party would command a majority. Most of his utterances so far have been more marked for their pleasant platitudes than for their practical appeal. Wise enough to avoid the advocacy of any new or startling plan for the more effective prosecution of the nation's war effort, politically adroit enough to steer clear of a categorical reaffirmation of his traditional political beliefs, Mr. Bracken has said little to indicate that his concept of government in these troublous times differs materially from that of the present Prime Minister. Such leadership as he continues to give to his party from the political sidelines is animated by the natural desire of his followers to gain office. But the intelligent voters of the Dominion will require much more enlightenment on his proposed procedure than they have received to date. And it is to be noted that the objections which Conservatives raised when Mr. King sought new instructions in the early spring of 1940—after more than four years in office and with the war then only a few months old—are conspicuously absent.

The case of the C.C.F., of course, is somewhat different. Canada's third party is entitled to crow over its success at the polls in Ontario, at federal byelections in Saskatchewan and Manitoba, and in two provincial ridings in British Columbia. And it is no secret that its supporters are working almost night and day in anticipation of the appeal which sooner or later Mr. King must make to the people. From the standpoint of organization, federally as well as provincially, moreover, the C.C.F. patently is leaving nothing whatever to chance.

This is the general political situation in Canada as the great global conflict settles down into its fifth year. It can be taken for granted, however, that if Mr. King asks for a dissolution, some people will blame him for taking such a course in view of the fact that Parliament has on no occasion refused to support his government. But if he ignores the rumblings to which we have referred, criticism will be equally emphatic. In other words, he proposes to take the advice of the party in a sensible and practical fashion. Nor will he err by consulting the electorate when he deems such procedure advisable or necessary.

Startling T.B. Figures

BRITISH COLUMBIA'S MEDICAL ASSOCIATION, in annual session in Vancouver, heard from Dr. W. H. Hatfield, director of the division of tuberculosis control for the province, that during the past year 1,421 new cases of the "great white plague" were discovered—making a total of more than 8,000 known sufferers in British Columbia at the present time. As one means of preventing further inroads of the disease, Dr. Hatfield outlined plans for an annual X-ray for every resident of the province, the first to be taken within a few weeks.

This is obviously a move in the right direction. The figures which Dr. Hatfield gave to the Medical Association furnish their own commentary. British Columbia has done excellent work in the preventive field; it could do a great deal more if the Legislature would vote ample money for the purpose—the saving of the human asset, the most precious of all. We could think of one or two government "activities" that might well be dispensed with and the cost of upkeep transferred to the prevention and control of tuberculosis.

Adolf The Subdued

AT LAST ADOLF HITLER HAS FELT that he could talk to the German people without deluding them or himself. That part of his broadcast yesterday was commendably frank. Ever since the war began he has repeatedly promised his regimented dupes something little short of the whole world. But he now finds it necessary to confess that his bid for global dominion must henceforth be confined to a "ring of steel" round the German home front that "will never break." The Fuehrer's admission that "we may have to cede some territory" was important and significant only for the fact that the all-highest himself gave it voice. And if those 16 minutes he spent at the microphone after six months of silence represented the best he could do, even the most ardent Nazi party member will no doubt be wishing he had saved his breath.

Hitler's references to Italy's treachery had a quality of sordid humor in a class by itself. But what could the poor man say in the light of the realities facing him in the east, in the south, and in the west? There is nevertheless this to be said in his behalf: Not only did he not mention the situation on the Russian front; he added no footnotes to the historic defeats of the much-vaunted Afrika Korps; and he purloined no fancy phrases from the Herr Doktor Goebbels to try to explain the Wehrmacht's retreat towards the last line of organized Nazi defence on Soviet soil. As to his threats of the employment of "technical" means to thwart the Allied aerial offensive, little need be said; we have heard many such vapors before. But what should not escape the peoples of the United Nations is the practical certainty that Adolf Hitler intends to fight within "Festung Europa" with everything he has. And this means a long and bitter struggle.

Not Enough Ships Yet

WITH NEW INVASIONS IN PROSPECT for the Mediterranean, not underestimating the significance of a still greater acceleration of the aerial war over north-western Europe and what it may imply, shipping experts in the United States are beginning to warn the public that, even with speeded-up building, it will be some time before the United Nations have all the merchantmen they require in the big job of eliminating the two remaining members of the Axis.

To be sure, the shipping situation has improved immeasurably in recent months; the Battle of the Atlantic has lost some of its dire threat to the Allied cause. But we may take it for granted that Hitler will move heaven and earth to get more submarines into the sea lanes—to disturb the flow of equipment between the Old and the New Worlds. One American commentator sums up conditions this way:

"We have done a job of shipbuilding for which even Hollywood press agents could not find an adequate adjective. We have brought the submarines well under control, temporarily at least. But before the balance was struck and the trend turned our way, there was so great a deficiency that it will take months before we shall have any surplus of ships above test war requirements. The popular fallacy grew out of a hasty, ill-considered remark by official Washington. We were told, not long since, that the problem had ceased to be one of finding ships and had become one of finding cargoes. That probably was true at a given moment. The tides of war was wane."

But if that condition was true for a few days or even a week or so, it is not true generally. The official who spoke prematurely could have ascertained easily that the moment invasion activities began, the facilities of the United Nations once more would be strained to the breaking point. It will be well into 1944 before the Allies can hope to replace, net, their early war tonnage losses. By that time, if the best qualified experts are correct, requirements will have increased enormously, so that still there will be no surplus.

All One War

RUSSIA'S GOVERNMENT NEWSPAPER Izvestia has told the people of the Soviet Union that successive defeats of the Wehrmacht on the eastern front have to a considerable extent contributed to the collapse of Italy. There will be no disposition on the part of the peoples of the United Nations to contest this argument. It is obvious that every mile of Russian territory recaptured from the Germans adds to the strain on the enemy's forces.

It must also be remembered that the initial victory of Sir Archibald Wavell's army of the Nile in the winter of 1940-1941—which succeeded in destroying the cream of Marshal Rodolfo Graziani's army of approximately 300,000—cast the first shadow of Italy's ultimate elimination from the Axis triumvirate. Nor have our good friends and allies the Russians forgotten that although early British victories in the desert were followed by retreats, the final drive of the British Eighth Army was the prerequisite to an invasion of Sicily and the "soft underbelly" of the Axis. Into this movement was fitted at the right time the landing in French Northwest Africa.

Of paramount importance to the campaign in Russia, moreover, was the removal of the threat to the Near and Middle East—which remained until Marshal Rommel's Afrika Korps was thrown out of Egypt. Had the enemy reached Suez a year ago, the eastern front would have been jeopardized. In other words, Italy's unconditional surrender was part of the harvest for which all the United Nations coalition had schemed and fought; this is all one war.

But if only the good could criticize the bad, who would be free to rebuke evil?

DISILLUSIONMENT

IT IS A LITTLE disillusioning to discover that Mr. Churchill is not a fly fisherman, that he went into the fishing haunts of Quebec the other day entirely ignorant of the art, and had to be instructed by the President of the United States. The fly fishermen of Canada will forgive the Prime Minister, for his other great virtues, but it will not be easy.

For what a talent has been wasted here! The fingers which could create beautiful paintings in oil were surely made for the delicate art of tying the fly. The strong muscles which learned to lay bricks with the skill of a professional were surely made to manipulate the rod, tirelessly over the foaming river. And, above all, the flaming imagination which wrote Mr. Churchill's books was obviously designed by nature to describe the day's catch around the camp fire at night, to explain how the big one got away, to exaggerate it just a little and to surround the whole art of angling with the eloquence, the beautiful poetry and vivid language which courses through all Mr. Churchill's speeches. Ah, what a fish story that would be!

And all this lost. This adventurer has bestrode the world like a Colossus, has done nearly everything that men can do and has been a part of all that he has met. Yet, as Ulysses said, all experience is an arch where through gleams that untraveled world, whose margin fades forever and forever when we move. Mr. Churchill has never reached the final experience of the dry fly, nor felt the electric tug on an eight-ounce rod, with the white water foaming about his hips.

What a pity is this! What a loss to fishing! What a blank spot in a crowded career! And what a falling off was here, when the man who could decide the fate of nations in the Citadel of Quebec must descend immediately afterwards to the lowly worm on a hook!

HE WILL LEARN

ALAS, HE HAS had no time for fishing. He has been too busy saving the world and we must bear with him a little. But when the war is over he must return to Canada. He must be instructed by experts even more eminent than the President of the United States. Let him come to Vancouver Island in the spring, when the flies are first hatching on the Cowichan. Let him take lessons from Roger Monteith or Panther Pitts or Harry Pooley who, in the language of the whirling line, the bent rod, the screaming reel are more eloquent than Mr. Churchill in his speeches.

Let him explore the Big Pool, the Spring Pool, the Long Pool and those other inner mysteries to which only the true believer is admitted. Let him be initiated by the priests into the final sacraments and he will feel indeed that his career has been crowned and made complete.

For Mr. Churchill will be the first to understand the true inwardness of this art. He will be the first to realize that its attraction is not physical, has nothing to do with the killing of fish, or even with the mere skill of a high art, but is entirely mystical. He will understand that, with a practitioner like Pitts or Monteith or Pooley, the catching of fish, the casting of the line, the expert manipulation of the fly are merely an outward and visible sign of an inward and spiritual grace, are merely a ritual, like the dance of a heathen priest before his golden idol.

THE TRUE MEANING

THE DANCE ITSELF is unimportant. The casting of the fly by a Pitts, a Monteith or a Pooley is unimportant also, and only a sign of an inner light and inspiration which is too subtle to be conveyed in words and must be conveyed by some physical act which the world will understand.

No one could understand this better than Mr. Churchill once it was explained to him, for he above all men of our time has understood the practice of ritual; he more than any man has been able to convey in another ritual, the art of oratory, certain truths which cannot be conveyed in words but must be suggested, insinuated and created in the mind of the listener not directly but by inspiration.

Given a fly rod and a good instructor and we may be sure that Mr. Churchill would shortly bring to fly fishing the same genius which has expressed itself in speech, in painting, in writing and in bricks. Presently we would find in this artist the final expression of a thing which all the Pitts, Monteiths and Pooleys of the world have vainly tried to express for years. Mr. Churchill would give the inner mystery its supreme embodiment and make it understandable to millions of people who, up to now, have only seen a fellow standing on the bank of a river whipping an oiled string across the water. Fly fishing would find its great exemplar, its high priest. Meanwhile we must let Mr. Churchill get on with the business of the war, but the thought of that worm rankles.

IN PRAISE OF CATNIP TEA

From St. Louis Post-Dispatch

The W.C.T.U. is plugging catnip tea. The director of its department of non-alcoholic fruit products served catnip to the executive committee and announced: "For dark hours, we recommend a cup of catnip. It's a grand drink for man or beast."

It has been a solace to the spirit. Statues and poems and plays and novels and essays and paintings and music have been produced about it and because of it. It has lifted up the old and weak. It has heightened the virtue of wit, and made the company of the unwitty appear less endurable than had at first been thought. What has catnip tea? Come, come, ladies; drunk or sober, let's not make ourselves ridiculous.

We Must Work Together, Or....

From St. Louis Post Dispatch

The stability of the postwar world is going to depend on the ability of the United Nations to form a bloc which will be powerful enough to keep the peace of Europe. Before the Second World War, Great Britain and France performed this feat of fancy balancing of power. There can be little doubt that France, after this war, will be totally inadequate to the task. With a maximum of outside aid, it will be all France can do to take care of herself, for a long time—perhaps for so long that she cannot be depended upon to maintain peace on the continent for as far ahead as we can now see. There is only one other power in the European orbit big enough to do it, and that is Russia.

The power of the United States, which has been required to give final international authority to the Franco-British balance of power, would be even more urgently required for a Russo-British balance—for there will be more than ever to be done in a world crying for reconstruction, and the nations in authority will have less energy than ever for the work. If the United States gives itself only half-heartedly to the responsibility, the stability of the peace will be, at best, uneasy. Our wholehearted collaboration will be required to make it secure. Ours may, in a sense, be the deciding vote for another world war or for peace; if so, we will cast it when we decide whether or not to accept full responsibility in the world at large as equal partners with Britain and Russia.

Can the people of the United States accept Russia as a partner? Can they convince themselves it is necessary and desirable? The feeling against it is strong. Strong as it is on the home front, it is perhaps stronger in the armed services. "We shall have to fight Russia next" is reported a frequent expression among our troops in England. An air crew student at Springfield writes that the contention that "a Russian-U.S. war is inevitable" is "only too prevalent in the army air corps."

On the other side, can the people of Russia accept the United States and Great Britain as partners? Again, the feeling against it is strong. Democracy and Bolshevism have never worked together, have never made an honest effort to work together, and yet the fact confronts them today, as plain as the side of a barn, that the only way they seem likely to work well enough in the years ahead is together.

Can Americans, can the British, can the Russians correct long-held and deeply-felt prejudices as they must do to meet the practical issues of a world in which the destinies of their three nations have become a single destiny?

SOVIET OFFICIAL VOICES

From New York Times

The latest name in the Russian publication field is a magazine called War and the Working Classes, which has a strong article on the subject of a second front. The substance has been summarized in the Moscow dispatches. It is being read over here and in Britain as another expression of the Soviet government's feelings in the matter.

By this time, of course, it is no longer a novelty that all editorial opinion in Soviet Russia is official opinion. With us, or in Britain, an editorial in the daily paper, or in The London Sunday Times, or in The Infantry Journal, or in The American Federationist, or in The Pharmaceutical Journal, or in Women's Wear, or in The New Republic—such an editorial commits only the publication in which it appears. But in Soviet Russia it is the same voice that speaks in Izvestia, which is the official government organ, or Pravda, which is the Communist party organ, or Red Star, which is the army paper, or a magazine called War and the Working Classes, or no doubt the Soviet journals of astronomy and biology and archaeology.

HARD TIME AHEAD

London Chronicle

Since defensive strategy is alien to the practice of German generals, we can be sure that they will pin their hopes to an all-out attack this year, before they are finally hurled back to their European "fortress." When the time comes for our invasion the Atlantic Wall will go the way of the Maginot Line and of the Mareth Line. That is certain, too. But one other thing is certain, too. The Germans who are preparing their defenses in fear will defend them with the fury of desperation. The cost of victory will be high, and only the courage and spirit of the whole nation will bring us through the dark days which lie between us and the dawn of peace.

WAR—25 YEARS AGO

September 11, 1918—The British took Attily, Verdun and Vendelles between Cambrai and St. Quentin. Near Rouppe and Laifaux the French repulsed a German counterattack. U.S. troops arrived in Arras to assist the Allies in restoring order in north Russia.

September 12, 1918—The American 1st Army under Gen. John Pershing co-operating with the French and supported by tanks launched a strong offensive on both sides of St. Michel, making good progress. The British captured Havincourt, Trecault and Epehy.

Broach Winter Teen-age Program

Feasibility of organizing a winter-teen-age recreation movement in Victoria to provide healthy outlets for young energies was discussed by members of the city supervised playground committee at a wind-up meeting covering summer activities in Welfare House Thursday.

With the objective of providing Friday night and Saturday afternoon and evening activities for young people, the general plan will be considered in greater detail at a general meeting to which interested organizations will be invited to send delegates.

Reports covering playground activity showed general appreciation for the service rendered during July and August in Central and Beacon Hill Parks. A minor financial deficit was reported from the program.

At Beacon Hill an average attendance of 60 to 80 children was reported, with popular days drawing as many as 150.

Emphasis was laid by the supervisor on the need to avoid disappointing children through cancellation of scheduled events. In that connection, special mention was made of volunteer assistants, some of whom were excellent in their contribution, while others allowed interest to lag through failure to attend.

Tribute was paid the assistance of summer school students assigned on part-time to parks by Ernie Lee, physical education director at the school.

Unfortunate weather conditions reduced the effectiveness of Girl Guide programs, but clay work under Miss Lothian and soap carving under Miss Angela Hughes as well as paper work under Mrs. Patenaude had been excellent, the supervisor reported.

Program improvements suggested for next year called for more music in the parks, devotion of children's energies to some war work, puppet-making, more inter-park activity, and more special events as well as an increase in equipment generally.

Votes of thanks were extended to all who had assisted in the park supervision, with special reference to the library service extended by the Victoria Public Library.

Candy production in the United States topped 2,500,000,000 pounds in 1941 and again in 1942. Over 10 per cent of the 1942 production was sold direct by manufacturers to military buyers, who bought some in addition from wholesalers.

Employers Pleased With Women's Work, Says Labor Report

More and more women are becoming employed daily in the war industries of B.C., according to the Labor Department's annual report for 1942, released today.

"Practically every line of industrial work sees women and girls engaged in occupations that a few years ago were considered to be men's work," says the report. "Machines of all sizes, turning out minute or large parts, assembling intricate equipment, and mechanical operations of all kinds will no longer hold mysteries for these nimble-fingered workers. "Tribute is being paid to them by employers who, in some cases, were reluctant to change from a staff of males to one of women and girls.

"For the most part girls are making good, and in repetitive work and for conscientious attention to detail in many instances have been declared to be more suited than men and boys.

"A word of appreciation too, is due to the employers, who have had to provide extra facilities for these new employees. Airy lunch rooms, adequate locker space and appropriate rest rooms have been added to many establishments and these changes have often resulted in improved conditions for the male employees as well."

Unrationed Fun At Crystal Garden I.O.D.E. Victory Fair

WALTERS-LLOYD-YOUNG

Early autumn shades dominated the color scheme used in this afternoon's 3 o'clock wedding, in the Church of Our Lord, when Rev. Canon E. V. Bird solemnized the marriage of Lilian M. (Jill), eldest daughter of Mrs. H. Lloyd-Young, 1149 Hilda Street, and Sgt. Charles J. Walters, Canadian Dental Corps, Mr. T. R. Myers, church organist, played the wedding music. Gladioli in the autumn tones were arranged in the chancel with lovely effect.

Given away by her brother, Mr. Carysfort F. Lloyd-Young, the bride chose a tailored street-length frock of white silk crepe, and a small hat and veil. She carried an all-white cascade bouquet of carnations, gladioli, sweet peas, heather and swainsons.

The bride was attended by her three sisters, Mrs. N. B. Fatt, Mrs. Kenneth Dixon and Mrs. Warwick Rawson, wearing similar afternoon frocks of gold crepe with bracelet-length sleeves, long black gloves and accessories. Mrs. Fatt, as senior attendant, wore a wide-brimmed black hat, while Mrs. Dixon and Mrs. Rawson chose smaller black Dutch hats, and all carried arm bouquets of red velvet zinnias. Little Joan Fatt, as junior bridesmaid, was frocked in gold, with a gold Dutch hat, and carrying a Baby Colonial bouquet of red velvet zinnias. Mr. Warwick Rawson supported the groom, and Lieut. E. Lloyd-Young ushered.

A reception was held at the family residence, where Mrs. Lloyd-Young welcomed the many guests, gowned in black silk with white trim, black picture hat trimmed with ostrich plumes, and a corsage bouquet of red roses. A three-tier wedding cake, surrounded at the base with white tulle, centred the prettily appointed bride's table, covered with a white cut-work cloth.

After a short honeymoon at an unannounced destination, Sgt. and Mrs. Walters will reside on Burnside Road.

WILLS-DIGNAN

The wedding of Doreen Josephine, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dignan, Sidney, to Mr. Frank L. Wills, younger son of the late Mr. and Mrs. P. C. Wills, Sidney, took place at 2 on the afternoon of Saturday, Sept. 4, at the home of the bride's grandfather, Frank Verdier, Brentwood, Rev. D. M. Perley officiating.

Given away by her father, the bride was gowned in lace sheer over white satin, on princess lines, with a Peter Pan collar, and wore a silver filigree pendant necklace, a gift of the groom. She carried a bouquet of red roses, heather and maidenhair fern, and her shoulder-length veil was caught with heather. She was attended by her sister, Miss Lorna Dignan, frocked in yellow sheer and carrying pale rosebuds and maidenhair fern. The groom was supported by Mr. A. H. Sharpe. The wedding music was played by Mrs. D. M. Perley, and during the signing of the register Cpl. Brian Hanson, R.C.A.F., sang "Because."

At the reception which followed, Mrs. Dignan received the guests, wearing a black crepe suit, trimmed with white, and a corsage bouquet of red rosebuds, assisted by her cousin, Mrs. Hance, in blue silk ensemble. The bride cut the three-tier wedding cake, after Mr. A. B. McNeill, an old family friend, proposed the toast. Mrs. McNeill presided at the tea table.

Mr. and Mrs. Wills left for a honeymoon at Vesuvius Bay and mainland points, the bride traveling in a forest green suit with white accessories and a beige topcoat.

FOLEY-RHODE

Adeline Gertrude Eva, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rhode, Happy Valley Road, exchanged marriage vows Thursday evening at 7.30 in St. John's Church, Colwood, with OD. Andrew James Foley, R.C.N.V.R., son of Mr. F. Foley, Moss Street, and the late Mrs. Foley. Rev. G. H. Greenhalgh read the service and Mr. Bartell was the organist. Pastel shaded flowers had been arranged in the church by girl friends of the bride.

Wearing a gown of heavy white georgette, styled with an embroidered bodice, low waistline and bishop sleeves, the bride was given in marriage by her father. A three-tier net veil fell from a sweetheart headress, trimmed with orange blossoms worn by her mother, and she carried a shower bouquet of red rose buds, white sweet peas and heather. Miss Betty Hutchinson was maid of honor, wearing a floor-length frock of primrose yellow sheer, wide-brimmed halo of matching net, and carrying an arm bouquet of kokomo carnations and marguerites. Bridesmaids were Miss Verna Rhode, in delphinium blue sheer, and Miss Kathleen Oliver, in shell pink, with matching floral headresses, and carried pastel-shaded gladioli and asters. Best man was Mr. Kenneth Duncan, and acting as ushers were Messrs. Norman Rhode and John Oliver.

After the ceremony, the young couple stood beneath a floral archway in Luxton Hall to greet about 200 guests, assisted by Mrs. Rhode, wearing a French blue wool crepe frock with navy blue accessories, and Mrs. George Foley, sister-in-law of the groom, in a blue crepe ensemble, and matching hat. A hand-made white lace cloth covered the bride's table, arranged with white tapers in silver holders, vases of sweet peas and rosebuds, and centred with a three-tier wedding cake.

OD. and Mrs. Foley left for a honeymoon in Vancouver, the bride traveling in a two-piece frock of powder blue, navy accessories, beige topcoat, and corsage bouquet of red roses and sweet peas.

McEvay was the bride's only attendant in deep blue with navy blue accessories, and a corsage bouquet of yellow rosebuds and peach gladioli. Mr. C. West attended his brother.

The reception was held in the garden of the bride's parents, where members of the immediate family were welcomed by Mrs.

Day and Mrs. West. After the bride cut the three-tier wedding cake, Ven. Archdeacon Collison proposed a toast.

After a honeymoon up-island, the young couple will make their home in Victoria.

"Malta Spitfire"

By GEORGE (BUZZ) BEURLING

A thrilling account of R.A.F. exploits over Malta, as experienced by one of Canada's greatest air aces.

—Lending Library, Mezzanine Floor at THE BAY

Some day he'll understand...

... the marching figures in brown, blue and grey ... the mannish dress that people like his mother wear ... the roaring noises from the sky and the strange, rolling echoes in the night ...

Some day he'll understand—and know that this was Canada on the march. And he'll be grateful.

Grateful, too, for this—that even as Canada fought his battle, it gave him foods to make his body strong. From the Spartan disciplines of war has come a new and wholesome interest in food. What are the daily requirements of a balanced diet? Which available foods can substitute for those that are scarce? What cooking methods will preserve food values?

With the answers to such questions as these, the Canadian housewife today is building a finer, stronger Canada ... building it, in the face of wartime shortages.

Gordon Head Bulb Sale For Red Cross

Last year at the bulb sale by the Gordon Head unit of the Red Cross many hundreds of bulbs were sold to garden lovers throughout Greater Victoria. With the overseas bulb market still cut off, the importance of Gordon Head as a bulb-growing district is now greater than ever so that it is a rare opportunity for friends of the Red Cross to do two excellent jobs by means of a trip to the interesting display to be arranged in the Gordon Head Community Hall, Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 25 and 26, from 2 to 5:30 p.m.

The event is still two weeks off but gardeners are accustomed to making plans well in advance and it is certain that many of them will be glad to wait for this chance to buy direct from the growers. Dozens of varieties will be on sale and prices will range from a few cents each to the finer varieties at $1 each. The committee announces also that shrubs and home cooking and those fancy aprons that sold like the proverbial hot cakes last year, will also be available.

Predicts Glowing Future For Saanich

The proposal that social services and education costs should not be dependent on property taxes in the postwar world was advanced by W. A. Greene, Saanich municipal clerk, in an address to the Real Estate Board of Victoria in Spencer's dining-room Friday.

Mr. Greene was speaking on "Municipal Administration in Saanich Municipality," and he expressed the opinion that both the administration and financing of education should not be in the hands of municipal agencies because it did not make for equality and uniformity of educational opportunity.

Speaking on the growth and development of Saanich since 1852 when it was first purchased from the Indians, Mr. Greene made the prediction that in the not too distant future Saanich would outgrow Victoria, Esquimalt and Oak Bay combined. He pointed out that its area of 55 square miles was nearly twice that of Vancouver which has a population of over 300,000.

Financial position of the municipality is excellent according to Mr. Greene, with a surplus of $30,000 in the sinking fund and all investments carrying an interest of 5 per cent. Saanich municipality is practically free from debt he said, and is one of the few municipalities in Canada in such a happy position.

He outlined in detail the organization of the municipality including the different social services offered.

During the postwar rehabilitation period, Mr. Greene had many suggestions for the development of Saanich municipality which would provide employment for returned service men and aid the municipality. He pointed out that the lack of water was one great deterrent to the quicker development of the municipality and that there are many areas that would be settled if water could be obtained. He suggested that this could be a rehabilitation project.

Major H. C. Holmes, vice-chairman of the board, was in the chair in the absence of President R. H. Shanks. Alderman W. H. Davies moved a vote of thanks to the speaker.

Easterners Study Victoria Fuel Plan

Victoria's experiment in self-help woodcutting is to be copied in the east. A representative from the National Selective Service headquarters in Ottawa while in the city this week obtained the complete history of the self-help scheme and its operations, with a view to starting similar undertakings in Ontario and Quebec, it was reported at the meeting of the self-help fuel committee Thursday evening.

To date approximately 1,500 cords have been cut by citizens participating in the self-help plan inaugurated by the Vancouver Island Joint Labor Conference, C. W. Marshall, secretary-manager, stated. Of this total about 300 cords was cut last week-end at the Florence Lake area by men who took advantage of the holiday to provide themselves with wood.

The demand for free permits keeps climbing. Last month permits were issued for the cutting of about 1,000 cords of wood in the various areas opened up by the committee, and to date citizens interested in the scheme have been given formal permission to cut a total of 4,450 cords of wood, thus relieving the pressure on commercial sources for winter fuel.

Road work has now been completed at Florence Lake, and there are seven side roads into the whole of the property, making easier access for the trucks which are hauling the wood into town. Three drag saws are already in operation with a fourth expected shortly. Any free permit-holder requiring the use of the saw must make reservations with Mr. Marshall, at E 8116. A generous donation of lumber from Stewart and Hudson and the Moore-Whittington Co., will be used to build a hut for the housing of the equipment.

The committee has also been instrumental in setting up an organization for the benefit of residents of the Sidney district, it being the policy of the committee to extend its operations wherever possible in the interests of the community.

Shipbuilders Agree To Plant Changes

Coast shipbuilders have agreed to make certain changes and improvements in connection with plant equipment, working conditions and associated problems recommended in the reports of the Dobson committees on the Victoria and Vancouver shipyards recently submitted to the Federal Department of Labor.

Victoria committee was composed of N. Dobson, chairman; J. McKinley, representing Boiler-makers and Iron Shipbuilders (C.C.L.); W. Caird, A.F. of L.; J. Walker, C.F. of L.; H. S. Hamill, Victoria Machinery Depot, and E. W. Izard, Yarrows Ltd.

Vancouver was represented in addition to Mr. Dobson, by J. A. McCarthy, machinist, representing Metal Trades Council; R. Johnson, chargehand rivetter, representing C.C.L.; A. Tolmie, chargehand shipwright, C.F. of L., and W. D. McLaren and H. Wallace, representing the mainland shipbuilders.

The committees were appointed by the Royal Commission headed by Mr. Justice Richards of the Manitoba Court of Appeal, which inquired into the factors impeding production and investigated means of securing production in the coast shipyards.

In a communication to Chairman Dobson, Hon. Humphrey Mitchell, Minister of Labor, stated that "the services rendered by yourself and the members of your committees are most sincerely appreciated by both government and the shipbuilding industry, and should increase the momentum of Canada's national effort through the speeding up of our production of ships for war."

Saanich Board's Turn to Move, Minister Says

Hon. H. G. T. Perry, Minister of Education, Friday afternoon told a delegation from Saanich protesting Judge J. O. Wilson's recommendation that Dr. J. M. Thomas be dismissed as principal of Mount View High School, that Saanich school board should take appropriate action on the judge's report.

"What action will be taken if they fail to take action, I am not prepared to state," Mr. Perry said.

G. Kilshaw headed the delegation of Saanich ratepayers, which had met the night before at Mount View High School to hear Judge Wilson's report.

The minister said he did not think it fair that he be placed in the position of a court of appeal.

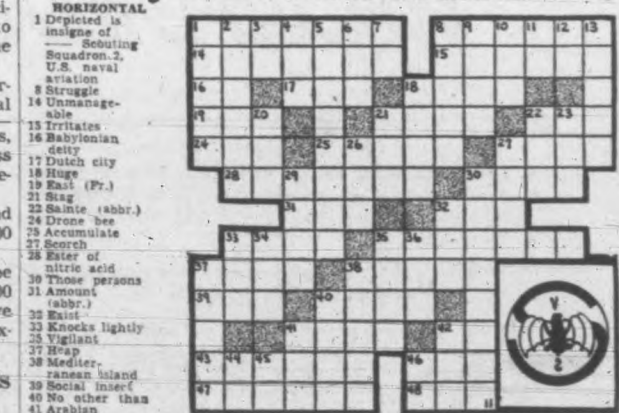

CONSIDERATION

"The position now is that the report is in the hands of the school board and it is my desire that they consider it and take appropriate action," Mr. Perry said. "I asked the board to give due consideration to sections 12 and 14, recommending that the principal be relieved of his present position and placed elsewhere. I myself will give thoughtful consideration to what you have said before action is taken."

Mrs. A. J. A. Bell told the minister a man like Dr. Thomas should not be dispensed with in the interests of education.

Wm. Purnell, F. J. Bevis and Leslie Passmore told the minister they felt the corporal punishment incident had been closed when the school board finished discussing nature, with representatives outlining suggestions for postwar town planning and exchanging views on the question.

it last January, on the motion of Trustee J. Burridge, who since has resigned.

Mr. Bevis said the general impression is abroad that unless the board removes Dr. Thomas the education department will do so. He asked the minister if the department felt bound to act on the judge's report.

"I feel responsible after I asked for a commission and I think the trustees have a responsibility too," the minister replied. "You seem to forget that two trustees resigned and that the council, a superior body to the school board, asked for an investigation."

Ex-Reeve Passmore said the whole matter of the thrashing of the boys had been disposed of in the presence of the parents.

"It isn't British justice that when a man has gone through an ordeal before a school board he is again hauled up on the same charge for which he had been acquitted four or five months earlier," Mr. Passmore said. "It is not in the interests of Saanich, the educational system or democracy."

Mr. Perry replied that he did not need lessons in democracy.

Mr. Kilshaw thought it unethical of the council to intervene in a closed incident. "The corporal punishment incident was closed and the trustees did not resign over that issue," he said.

Mr. Perry said it was correct that he told the trustees to deal with the dismissal matter and if they did not the education department would.

"When the school board is there it is their duty to govern the district," he said. "When we arrive at the second bridge I'll cross it. I did try very hard to be fair and much prefer the school board to thrash it out themselves. We have left it to them. We'll give them a reasonable time."

Rev. T. H. McAllister told the minister that all the parents he knew held Dr. Thomas in great esteem and had confidence in him. He said he also had found some of the boys difficult to deal with.

"It was a great blow to Mount View, to the whole community and to all Saanich," he said.

TEACHERS PROTEST

A meeting of more than 50 per cent of the teaching staff of Saanich schools at Cloverdale School Friday night unanimously endorsed a resolution protesting the carrying out of the recommendation of the Judge J. O. Wilson report.

Later in the evening the executive of the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association endorsed the same resolution.

The resolution read: "Be it resolved that, in view of the findings of Judge Wilson which exonerated Dr. J. M. Thomas of all but one of the alleged conditions, that we protest the carrying out of the recommendation which is felt by this body unjust."

W. R. Jones, acting chairman of the teachers' organization, read the Wilson report to the meeting.

FUTURE of hockey in British Columbia for the coming winter will be decided in a huddle at Nanaimo tomorrow. Officials from four cities, Victoria, Vancouver, Nanaimo and New Westminster, will gather around the committee room and attempt to work out some plan to keep the game going. Prospects for the season looked just as rosy as last season until the services did their disappearing act in the Island League this week. That kind of threw a monkey wrench into the works.

Heard today that Doug Grimston, president of the British Columbia Amateur Hockey Association, number one hockey man in the province, has been active in attempting to iron out matters so that hockey can continue to operate. Grimston will show at the Nanaimo session and may be able to come up with a trick or two to help the hockey boys over what looks like a rocky road.

From what we hear the Island League is not the only circuit facing difficulties for the coming season. The Mainland League, which last season comprised New Westminster Spitfires, Vancouver St. Regis, and Army and R.C.A.F., is not set for the season by any means. Definite entries have not been received from the Army and Flyers. Of course, that is not surprising to us over here. We could not see these teams playing in a civilian league on the mainland when the three services decided against playing senior hockey over here. It just did not add up.

Chatting to Johnny Park, sports editor of the Vancouver Province, in town for the races, we learned something about the hockey situation on the mainland. He informed us that Spitfires and St. Regis (backed by Coley Hall) are ready to sponsor hockey teams. "But I don't know how these clubs are ever going to finance their teams to play in an Inter-city League along with the Victoria Machinery Depot," Park said. "The attendance at games in New Westminster last winter would certainly not provide sufficient funds to allow mainland teams to travel to Victoria for games one night a week. Of course, I realize games here would draw big gates and it is possible something might be worked out to the benefit of all concerned."

"There is one thing certain and that is that New Westminster will make every effort possible to keep a hockey league operating," Park continued. "They have the fine arena over there and intend to keep it busy. One solution to this year's difficulties would have been the reopening of the Vancouver Forum. And I believe such was possible if a concentrated move had been made by the right parties."

Hockey Meeting Tomorrow

Gather at Nanaimo

NANAIMO (CP)—Officials of the Pacific Coast Amateur Hockey Association meet here Sunday confronted by the thorniest situation yet posed by wartime hockey.

Chief problem has been raised by Maj. Gen. A. E. Potts' announcement in Victoria last Tuesday that "service teams on Vancouver Island will not be permitted to play senior hockey this winter."

Delegates from Vancouver, New Westminster, Victoria and Nanaimo will attend the pre-season meeting. They are Doug Grimston, president of the B.C.A.H.A.; Ken McKenzie, president, P.C.A.H.A.; George Cassidy, hockey commissioner; Mac Black, president, mainland division, P.C.A.H.A.; all of New Westminster; Don Service, hockey commissioner, Vancouver; Doug Fletcher, president, island division, P.C.A.H.A.; Ivan Temple, secretary, island division, all of Victoria; Jack Ryan, president, P.C.A.H.A.; Harry Forward, secretary, and Gerry Berry, hockey commissioner, of Nanaimo.

Capt. H. Mighon, senior sport officer, Pacific command, and Cliff Leslie, sport supervisor for island-based services, also will attend.

Film World Series

CHICAGO (AP)—Soldiers' all over the world are going to see baseball's world series this year.

They will see it in a two-reel, 22-minute sound film that will be distributed to all foreign bases, Lew Fonseca, promotional director of the American League and producer of its annual motion pictures, said Thursday.

Filming the 1943 series—a cinch to be a rematch of New York's Yankees and the champion St. Louis Cardinals—will be undertaken by the American League in co-operation with the war and navy departments and two sponsors, Fonseca said.

The announcement came as an overseas tour by an all-star major league squad also is being considered.

There was a main drainage in the cities of England 80 years ago.

Mel Ott Given New Contract, One Big Headache

By HUGH FULLERTON

NEW YORK (AP)—Mel Ott has a new three-year contract to manage the Giants and, in our opinion, he'll have a three-year headache just like this year's unless he makes up his mind to become a bench manager.

That isn't to say Ott is washed up as a ball player, but as boss of the Giants he'll not only have to handle the club on the field but also plan out any steps to strengthen the club, keep tabs on minor league prospects and do practically everything but sell tickets... and nobody can handle all those jobs and play a good ball game too. Of course, the situation may be improved if the story is true that Leo Miller, the Syracuse Chiefs' business manager, will move into the Giants' front office.

LEVY IN ARMY

Big Ed Levy, army bound, will bid farewell to Newark baseball fans tomorrow by singing a duet with Frankie Hiller. Then the rest of the International League pitchers will render a chorus of "Working on the Levy." Cleveland's Al Stuphin explains that he wouldn't bring his Barons into the National League this year because (1) he wouldn't desert Buffalo, which was refused Sunday night dates, and (2) the league wanted a guarantee that Cleveland never would quit, regardless of losses.

When Leo Martin, former Massachusetts amateur golf champion, joined the navy he turned over his clubs to Joe Monahan Jr. with the admonition: "Take care of these for me until I come back." Martin, serving with the armed guard on a merchant ship, has been reported missing and Monahan, an army trainee at Harvard, is taking the best possible care of the clubs. He brought them out last week-end and won the C.Y.O. tournament—his first big individual triumph.

Uplands Cup Golf Tournament Opens

First round of the annual Uplands Cup competition will be played tomorrow at the Uplands Golf Club. The event, which will be 36-holes medal on full handicaps, has attracted a large entry. Second round will be run off Sept. 19.

CRYSTAL GARDEN BALLROOM

Cary Grant Shines In Capitol Feature

Hailed as the comedy find of the season, Alan Carney makes his screen debut as Cary Grant's thick-witted but loyal bodyguard in R.K.O. Radio's "Mr. Lucky," coming to the Capitol Theatre Monday.

His portrayal of the Crunk in the new film is said to be sensational.

Laraine Day has the principal featured role in the offering, with Charles Bickford, Gladys Cooper and Henry Stephenson featured.

New 'Hardy' Film Comes to the York

The Hardy Family, with irrepressible Mickey Rooney in a myriad of comical troubles, returns to the York Theatre in "Andy Hardy's Double Life," commencing Monday. Mickey as the ebullient Andy Hardy is faced with a breach of promise suit that turns out to be a "frame" and otherwise is in hot water generally until he finally gets started for college.

As in the case of several of the Hardy pictures, the new one introduces a glamorous new personality in Esther Williams, national swimming champion turned actress. The regular Hardy family favorites, including Lewis Stone, Fay Holden, Cecilia Parker, Sara Haden and Ann Rutherford appear.

DOMINION THEATRE

Four notable newcomers to the screen make their appearance in thrilling adventures in M-G-M's "Assignment in Brittany," currently at the Dominion Theatre. It is the first American appearance of Pierre Aumont, French star and war hero. Susan Peters, young actress who has risen to stardom since "Random Harvest," plays opposite him. Signe Hasso, Swedish beauty, and Richard Whorf, hailed as one of the outstanding young actors of the year, also appear.

RIO THEATRE

Born in Birmingham, Alabama, Inez Cooper spent much of her girlhood on the plantation of her grandmother in southern Georgia, used by General Sherman as his headquarters during the Civil War. The strikingly beautiful Miss Cooper is now at the Rio Theatre in the starring role of "Wings Over the Pacific."

ATLAS THEATRE

Fortunio Bonanova, who has the role of a musical Italian general in Paramount's "Five Graves to Cairo," currently at the Atlas Theatre, has some barbed things to say about his Nazi partners-in-crime. Whenever he starts to sing he is ordered to stop. In exasperation he demands, "How can a nation that belches understand a nation that sings?"

PLAZA THEATRE

John Abbott, who has one of the principal roles in "London Blackout Murders," the Republic picture which is now at the Plaza Theatre engagement, made his debut as a professional actor at the Westminster Theatre in London.

CADET THEATRE

OAK BAY THEATRE

Rise Stevens, lovely metropolitan opera star, who makes her screen debut opposite Nelson Eddy in the new M-G-M musical, "The Chocolate Soldier," now on the Oak Bay screen, first won public attention when she turned down a Met contract because she felt her voice wasn't ready for opera.

Cherniavsky Brothers To Play Here Oct. 1

The famous Russian duo, Jan and Michel Cherniavsky, who are to be heard in recital at the Empress Hotel ballroom Oct. 1, require little introduction in Victoria, where they have been heard on numerous occasions since their first concert appearance here some 25 years ago. Pianist and cellist, respectively, they were at that time members of the renowned Cherniavsky trio visiting Victoria in the course of one of the eight world-circling tours made by the three brothers before circumstances forced the disbanding of the ensemble. Each at the very peak of his genius, their last tour in aid of the Russian relief fund was a great success artistically as well as financially, their ensemble and solo work alike holding their audiences enthralled. In their forthcoming recital at the Empress ballroom they will give a program of fresh interest from their inexhaustible repertory.

Ticket sale is in charge of Fletcher Bros., 1130 Douglas Street.

B.C. Strikes Increase

A sharp up-trend in the number of strikes in B.C. was noted in 1942, according to the annual report of the Labor Department.

This was blamed by the report on "the intensification of the present conflict and its effect upon our economy."

Of the 50 strikes recorded last year, 13 were within the ambit of the province. A total of 18,804 employees were affected by these disputes and of that number 1,030 were within B.C. authority. Of the total of 35,024 man-days lost, 1,929 were attributable to the 13 strikes within B.C.'s jurisdiction.

Large increase in membership in employees' organizations was noted.

Last year there were 415 employees' organizations, with 91,618 members. In 1938, for instance, there were 352 organizations, with 42,063 membership.

Directors of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce will meet Monday afternoon at 4.

In Oak Bay police court Friday one motorist was fined $2.50 on a parking charge. All other cases were stood over until next week.

Will Participate In Volunteer Week

Legal aspects of war charities, and plans for celebrating "Volunteer Week," were discussed at a meeting Friday at the Chamber of Commerce of the Citizens' War Services Committee of Victoria.

Norman Foster, secretary, warned against violation of the War Charities Act. Every organization wishing to raise money for charity must be registered under the act, or must obtain a permit, he said. Permits could be obtained by applying to the committee at the Chamber of Commerce.

It was decided to call a meeting of police chiefs to clarify the situation, he said.

Mr. Foster explaining the purpose of "Volunteer Week" said, "It is not to spotlight the work of any one organization, but to bring to public attention the full strength of the voluntary effort of the women of Canada. It is a unique opportunity for recognition of the splendid work being done by volunteers and at the same time to enlist the services of those people in the community who have not yet found their niche in the voluntary field. The demand for volunteers to assist with the ever-growing civilian services is on the increase.

It was reported that eight concerts would be presented for the entertainment of troops throughout the winter season.

Resignation of Miss Violet Wilson, vice-president, was accepted with regret. The vacancy will be filled at the next election of officers.

New Joint Board For Service Clubs

VANCOUVER (AP)—Establishment of a war services board to co-ordinate the war efforts of all service clubs throughout Canada was forecast by H. A. Rogers of Toronto, founder of Kinsmen clubs, during an address here Friday night.

"I anticipate the service clubs of Canada will shortly be invited to set up a joint board," said Mr. Rogers. "There is no room in Canada's war effort or in any other effort for the spirit of competition between service clubs, and although we've enjoyed marvelous co-operation, what we have lacked, and still need, is the united efforts of all service clubs in the Dominion."

Normal Students Name Officers

At the Victoria Normal School Friday afternoon, one of the largest classes to take teachers' training in recent years, elected student officers, who will direct activities until Christmas and will constitute the first term's Students' Council.

Miss Margaret Elliot, Victoria, was elected president of the literary society with Edward Eberlein, Cranbrook, vice-president, and Miss Janet Isenor, Courtenay, secretary-treasurer. Students selected John Jackson, Creston, as president of the dramatic and debating society, Miss Lois Morry, Victoria, vice-president, and Miss Merle Jones, Revelstoke, secretary-treasurer. Max Turyk, Michel, was appointed president of the athletic society, Miss Catherine Shaw, Nanaimo, vice-president, and Miss Patricia Payte, Victoria, secretary-treasurer. Miss Ruth MacDougall, Victoria, was chosen as social convener and Miss Lois Dickinson, Chilliwack, was elected press correspondent. Social representatives from each of the three classes have yet to be selected.

A well-organized "get acquainted" picnic at Willows Beach following the elections, highlighted the first week's activity. Over coffee and hot dogs students from Nelson, Trail, Kimberley, Victoria, Ladysmith, Grand Forks, Powell River, Armstrong, and every part of the province, found something in common, and chatted like old friends. They played softball, swam in the ocean—some of them for the first time, gathered firewood, and later, around a huge campfire sang favorite songs.

Stunts and panto'es arranged during the week by each of the three classes were also presented with Class C winning the honors.

Monday evening at 8 the Arion Male Voice Choir will resume rehearsal, thus commencing the 52nd season of unbroken endeavor to provide the better quality male choral work. As in wartime all manpower is affected, new voices are welcomed to apply for membership to the secretary, 832 Ellery Street.

Alex McCabe, grand representative of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows, will leave Victoria this week to attend the business session of the Sovereign Grand Lodge, I.O.O.F. to be held in Chicago. This is the first session in two years. Mr. McCabe will be gone about two weeks.

TOWN TOPICS

A car driven by A. E. Peters, 3300 Tennyson, was considerably damaged Friday when it and a truck operated by Gurelita, an East Indian, collided Friday in the 1000 Block, Cloverdale. Saanich police said the truck was proceeding east on Cloverdale and turning left into a driveway when the collision occurred.

Fire of unknown origin Friday afternoon did slight damage to some clothing stored in the basement of a home at 111 Gorge Road. City firemen were at a loss to know the cause of the blaze, which apparently broke out in the trunk of clothes, the property of a soldier serving overseas. Earlier city firemen attended a grass fire at Cedar Hill and Edgeware.

The Beethoven Choral Club, under the direction of Prof. J. B. Hoffman, will resume rehearsals Sept. 20 in Prof. Hoffman's studio, 617 Fort Street. New members, ladies and gentlemen, wishing to join are requested to enrol on or before Sept. 20 at the studio.

In the report of Saanich ratepayers' meeting, Councillor G. A. Rudd's name was included in error with others who spoke in favor of secession. Mr. Rudd spoke in favor of retaining the present ward system and appealed that Saanich remain as is. He was absolutely opposed to the effort being made to alter the ward boundaries or abolish the ward system. He said every effort should be made to remove the main grievance—education costs.

Fall rally of the Mission to Lepers will be held in Centennial United Church, Gorge Road, Thursday at 3, when Rev. John Turner will speak. Mrs. T. L. Boyden, the secretary-treasurer, will take part. Dr. J. B. Rowell, president of the local branch, will preside.

Among the 150 military cadets graduating as officers at Gordon Head Officers' Training Centre this forenoon were five Vancouver Islanders, L to R: H. R. White, 949 Foul Bay Road, Victoria; S. W. Turner, 1619 Pinewood Avenue, Victoria; F. C. Williams, 410 Stewart Avenue, Nanaimo, and P. R. R. Jones, 935 Selkirk Street, Victoria. Also graduating, but absent from the picture, is 2nd Lieut. W. It was a colorful ceremony on the parade ground at Gordon Head at 10.30 this morning when Maj.-Gen. A. E. Potts, general officer commanding on Vancouver Island, took the salute, addressed the men and presented the qualifying certificates.

This is one of the last ceremonies of this nature to be held at Gordon Head, it is understood, as changes in Canadian army policy with regard to officer selection are reported to be in contemplation, whereby the present cadet system will be abolished and the officer training camps at Gordon Head and Brockville, Ont., closed. In future, it is reported, commissions would go to battle-toughened overseas soldiers.

Soldier Takes Letters After Fighting Woman

Climbing the fire escape of a downtown hotel to break into the room of a C.W.A.C. lieutenant, a soldier in battle-dress shortly before 2 this morning, according to the woman, threatened her, struggled with her when she screamed, and took three letters from her purse when she, with her nose bleeding, finally escaped his clutches.

The woman said she was awakened by the soldier, who told her he would kill her if she screamed. Nevertheless, the woman screamed and the soldier, she said, tried to grasp her throat. In the fight the woman was struck in the face and her nose began to bleed.

Finally wrenching herself free she fled down the hallway of the hotel.

On returning she found her purse emptied on the bed and the three letters missing.

Later in the morning the naval shore patrol picked up a soldier with bloodstains on his tunic. The soldier reported the stains were caused by his nose bleeding. An examination by a doctor showed the man that day had suffered a nose bleed.

He was turned over to the army provost corps.

Pair Face Charges Of Stealing Coat

James Ross and James Edmund Denman were charged in city police court today with the theft on or about Sept. 7 of an electric seal coat, the property of David Spencer Ltd. The pair were remanded without plea until Tuesday.

A woman, guilty of being drunk on Cormorant Street, was fined $25. Bail of $25 was estimated when two men, charged with being drunk on Johnson Street early today, failed to appear in court.

New York Stocks

NEW YORK (AP)—Some peace stocks had a further modest rise today as a number of top-ranking industrial leaders moved into fractionally lower ground.

The whole market had a hesitant note which brokers characterized as the usual Saturday pause against the possibility of new vital happenings in the war realm over the week-end.

Among Canadian issues, Lake Shore was up 1/4 and C.P.R. down a like amount. Dome and McIntyre appeared unchanged.

Breweries Up

MONTREAL (CP)—Mixed prices crept up to the stock exchange and curb market today.

St. Lawrence Corporation and Fraser Vining slipped a fraction in the new prints, while Abitibi preferred moved up 1/4. In gold, Dome and Sherritt Gordon showed mild strength, but Canadian Malartic eased a shade.

Aluminum was off 1/4 in base metals, and in the industrial group Canadian Car showed a similar loss.

In the miscellaneous group, Canadian Breweries, Seagrams and Penmans were better. Wabasso, Dominion Woollens and Fraser Company gave ground.

Utilities and refinery groups were inactive.

Willie Winkle

Visit to Victoria Statues Raised the Question "Who Started This Art?"

LAST SUNDAY, Pinto, Jack, Skinny and I were in Beacon Hill Park listening to the band concert. We walked through the rose garden—lovely, I think—and passed Burns' Monument.

It's surprising how many people have their pictures taken there, particularly sailors with their girls.

"That's a weenie-teenie statue to put on such a big base," Pinto said.

"Don't you know the story about that?" asked Skinny. "You ought to be here when the tally-ho goes by. The speller says a Scotsman came to town some years ago and when he didn't find a statue to Bobbie Burns he said he'd donate one to the city. The Scotsmen here thought they'd get something worth while, so they collected money and built that swell granite base. One day the statue arrived; that's it on the top. Sure is small, ain't it?"

"A Scotsman's joke, eh?" laughed Jack.

WE WALKED past the V.M.D. and saw the Seattle boat go out. We had statues on the brain, I guess, as we went over and looked at Queen Victoria's statue. First time I've really had a good look at it. Then we stopped at the Cenotaph and looked at the wreaths. I noticed some of them were for boys who have been killed in this war. Kind of brings the war home to you.

When I got home I was telling mother about the statues.

"Whoever started making statues?" I asked.

"That's a long story, Willie, but he's something I was reading about this afternoon," she answered. "Why don't you read it, it'll answer most of your questions."

I found it was written by Ruth West and as it was in a magazine you can't buy on the newsstands, perhaps you'd like to read it, too.

IN PREHISTORIC DAYS men wandered through forests and over mountains, their only weapons branches broken from trees, or stones that lay on the ground. But one day an unknown hunter took his rough weapon, broke off the twigs and smoothed its surface. He had made the first step in man's conquest of his surroundings—he had shaped a broken branch into a club.

From that time on, man has shaped things, tools, weapons, imitations of objects and of animals that he hunted. He decorated cooking utensils and bowls, an awakened desire for self-expression.

It was the birth of sculpture, the art of forming solid images, not because of their use but to express some idea, some feeling, some life experience.

When primitive people worshipped idols, it was the task of the sculptor to provide them.

In early Biblical times, Ur, the father of Abraham, was a maker of statues used as idols.

If these figures were to be more than mere images, they had to express an idea, a human thought to represent sculpture as an art. This the Greeks did as they chiseled in marble. The statue was not the god himself but what he represented, strength, beauty, military power, peace or wisdom.

IN THE VALLEY of the Tigris and Euphrates, where tradition locates the Garden of Eden, were the ancient kingdoms of Babylon and Assyria. Prosperous nations they were and art advances in prosperity. There was limestone and alabaster in the upper valley where the Assyrians lived. These stones served best for relief rather than for sculpture in the round, so Assyrian artists worked in relief. Winged monsters were made to stand at the entrance to palaces and temples. Their wings represented the protection of a guardian deity.

Babylonia had no stone, so they developed art expression in brick and enamel.

There remain many examples of early Egyptian sculpture. The earliest sculptors made figures to represent Pharaohs who were thought to be more than mere men; to express their greatness and divinity, the sculptors chose a lion as their symbol. Thus it came about that the statue's head was human but the body was that of a lion. Usually the lion body was in a relaxed position, expressing watchfulness combined with strength and wisdom. The sphinx is the classic example of Egyptian art.

WHEN IN 1300 B.C., northern tribes moved into Greece they brought a new religion of gods, Apollo, Zeus, Janus and many others. The Greeks began to carve from their marble likenesses of the new gods as they conceived them to be—figures of strength, speed, wisdom, beauty.

The Olympic games had served to develop perfection of body and symmetry which gave rare models to sculptors.

A new nationalism developed in Greece about 490 B.C., now known as the golden age of Greek sculpture. From that day to this no sculptor has surpassed the beauty and the artistry of the Greek sculptor who carved from his native marble, or modeled to be cast in bronze. From this earliest period three names stand out, Myron, Polyclitus and Phidias.

War, arch enemy of all beauty, marred and broken whatever examples of their work that is left. The Romans made restorations from the fragments, but much of their original splendor is gone.

The best-known example of Myron's is the Discus Thrower, whose rhythmic swing and beautiful balance has been the despair of athletes as well as sculptors through generations.

Some one has said "The last word in sculpture was spoken when Phidias died." His monument is the magnificent Parthenon, whose chief treasure was the colossal statue of Athena.

THE STORY that surrounds the well-known Venus de Milo is that it was discovered on the island of Milos by French explorers in 1820 and sent to Paris. Her arrival there caused no less excitement than the appearance of the goddess herself on Mount Olympus would have done in ancient days. Nothing was known of the history of the statue and violent disputes arose as to who ther she really was Venus or a lesser goddess. As to the sculptor, some believed that the calm strength of her countenance suggests Phidias; others held that the strong texture of her skin was in the style of Praxiteles; to others the proportion of her body suggested Lysippus.

The original position of the broken arms suggested another mystery for artists to discuss.

When the former royal palace of the French kings in Paris became the Louvre, the Venus de Milo was placed at the head of a main corridor to stand not only as a chief treasure of that gallery but of all the world.

AMONG the great figures of the Renaissance is Michelangelo Buonarroti, who stands out above all others as a sculptor and in painting, poetry, architecture and even in engineering.

In all of these fields he excelled but always he thought of himself as Michelangelo, sculptor.

His greatest work strangely enough, belongs to an unfinished statue, Moses. It was planned for the tomb of Julius II, but the tomb was never finished. The statue is in the little church of San Pietro in Vincula in Rome. It is held by critics to be the greatest statue in the world.

Sculpture always reflects the lives and thoughts of the people of the times. As the 17th century opened the revival of the religious feeling and its emotional response found expression in Baroque. It was a new movement translated into marble under the hand of the artist, as the dramatic in art had spread over Italy and into western Europe.

The art emphasis turned from the human form to draperies of clothing. The outstanding artist of this school was Giovanni Lorenzo Bernini, a Neapolitan who produced an enormous number of statues in the more than half century of active work.

While for generation after generation France and Italy and Greece and other nations developed sculptors, England had nothing to offer in that art field. It is strange that in a country where art as expressed in literature and painting was so outstanding. It may have been due to Puritan influence wherein statues were considered pagan. However in the last half of the 19th century interest in sculpture as an art spread to England and to the low countries.

IN EARLY America there were no sculptors; it is no occupation for pioneers nor can the people of a developing country find time for it.

Among Americans famed in sculpture is Augustus St. Gaudens, a man with a French name, born in Ireland, spent his childhood on the Bowery in New York. His first great work was the statue of Farragut that stands in Madison Square in New York. The two outstanding works of St. Gaudens are the statue of Lincoln, the statesman, in Lincoln Park, Chicago, and the Adams Memorial in Washington.

Concerning the Lincoln statue it is said that St. Gaudens saw Lincoln only twice; the first time during the war when this "tall

Wilson's Ideas Helped Shorten First World War

THE FIRST World War was fought largely from trenches. Soldiers on both sides dug long ditches, and these ditches were so deep that men could stand up inside them. They were not like the shallow foxholes of the present conflict.

It was common for the trenches to be greatly enlarged below the surface of the ground. In many cases there were large rooms in which scores of soldiers could gather. These rooms, with their dirt walls, were rudely furnished.

Soldiers in the trenches were supplied with food and water. They were at or near the front line and waited for orders to attack. Sometimes such an order did not come for weeks or months.

BEHIND the front-line trenches was the artillery. Great guns boomed night and day. Men in the trenches could hear the noise plainly enough, and had to learn to sleep through it. From time to time an enemy shell made a direct hit on a trench, killing or wounding soldiers in the area.

The greatest danger, however, came when attacks were ordered. The front-line trenches of the Germans might be half a mile or a mile distant from those of our own troops, or they might be only a few hundred feet away. The space between the opposing trenches was known as "No Man's Land."

Before the start of an attack across No Man's Land, the artillery opened up with special force. Thousands and thousands of shells formed what was called a "barrage." The idea was to bar the enemy from injuring our troops when they advanced. The shells flying over their heads formed a curtain of fire, and this was meant to protect the soldiers who rushed toward the enemy trench.

WHEN the order was given, up leaped hundreds of soldiers and officers, armed with rifles, hand grenades and pistols. It was a dangerous thing to cross No Man's Land! Despite the barrage, enemy machine-guns were likely to mow down the advancing troops. Shells from enemy cannon also were a great danger; they might explode in "No Man's Land" during the attack.

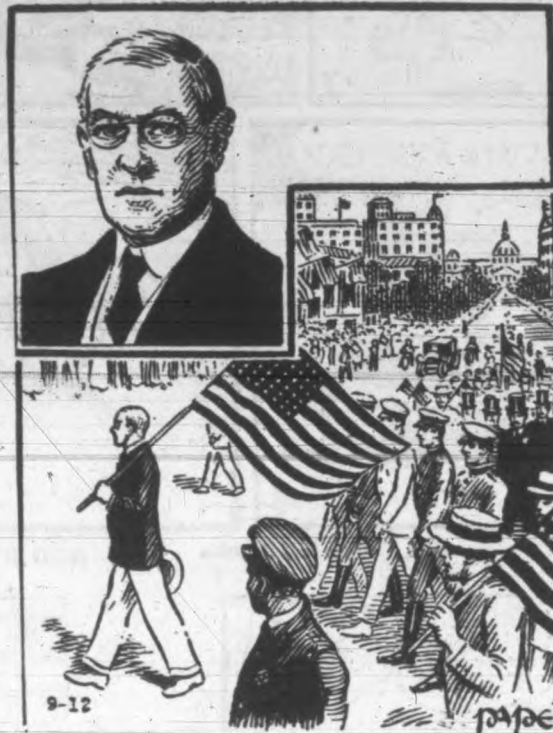

The soldiers kept as close to the ground as possible, often creeping into holes which had been made by exploding shells. Many a wounded man found safety in a shell hole until after the attack was over.

The object of the attack was to seize a section of the enemy trenches. Now and then there was a general advance, stretching dark man" was being driven in a carriage through the streets of New York. The last was when the body of Lincoln lay in state in the City Hall. The impression made on St. Gaudens was not forgotten and the Lincoln Park statue expresses the dignity and kindness and the power of mind and character of the great President.

Sixteen miles from Atlanta, Georgia, is Stone Mountain, a solid mass of granite, seven miles around its base and half as high as the Empire State Building. Gutzon Borglum, an American sculptor, has carved on the face of Stone Mountain a memorial to Gen. Robert E. Lee. It forms a sculptured panorama of the forces of the Confederate army headed by Gen. Lee. The figures are tremendous in size, so that travelers miles away can see the column of marching men.

Yet another mountain side memorial by Gutzon Borglum is high in the Black Hills of South Dakota on Mount Rushmore. On the living rock are carved the heads of Washington, Jefferson, Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt. It is fitting that Gutzon Borglum should be the creator of this massive work on a mountain covered only by the sky, for he was born in the pioneer west. His best work is done in the freedom of out of doors.

President Woodrow Wilson, whose portrait appears above, led a procession on Pennsylvania Avenue in Washington during the First World War.

over scores of miles of the battlefield.

If a trench was captured, the men in it were killed, wounded or taken prisoner, or else they fled to the rear where reserve trenches had been prepared.

THE tide of war swept back and forth, with one side and then the other making progress. Northern France was the scene of much of the hardest and most deadly fighting. More than once it seemed that the Germans were on the point of breaking through to reach Paris, but the French, British and Canadians held their ground so stubbornly that this did not happen.

In the last year of the war, hundreds of thousands of American soldiers reached France. By that time the French and British soldiers, as well as the Germans, were tired from their long period of trench warfare. The fresh American troops did a great deal to turn the tide of battle and to bring an end to the war, with Germany surrendering.

Woodrow Wilson was president of the United States while the First World War was going on. He foresaw the day when his country might be drawn in, and did what he could to prepare for it. In that war, however, there was no draft of American soldiers before the entrance of the United States. In the present war, on the other hand, the draft—or selective service law—went into effect before Pearl Harbor was attacked.

PRESIDENT WILSON believed that it was most important to fight the war with something besides bullets. He found ways to reach the minds of the German people and to make them think it was better to end the war than to keep on fighting. In one of his speeches he listed 14 conditions on which peace should be made. Those conditions became the "Fourteen Points" of history.

Partly because of the Fourteen Points, and partly because of losses on the battlefield, the German people turned against the war. Losing hope of victory, the German generals and government agreed to an Armistice on Nov. 11, 1918.

Thus ended the hard fighting of the First World War. Millions of soldiers had died, but there was hope of lasting peace. A League of Nations was formed, but the United States failed to join it. More than half of the United States senators voted to approve entry into the League, but they did not provide the two-thirds vote needed. Many persons think that if the United States had joined the League of Nations it would have been strong enough to save the human race from the Second World War.

Black Bears

By WILLIAM MACMILLAN

NO ANIMAL in all the woods is better grounded in the medicinal and nutritive values of roots and herbs than the black bear, which we sometimes see on Vancouver Island. One was shot recently in Saanich.

Far from being the savage, blood-thirsty creature of legend and story, he is a pronounced vegetarian. And while he does undoubtedly go "native" from time to time and eat flesh, his preference is for roots, berries and herbs.

Being a hibernator, the number one snorer of the woods, he slips into his den in the late autumn and proceeds to sleep the winter away. Unlike some animals, the chipmunk, for instance, he doesn't store up any visible reserves of food for this voluntary fast, but depends entirely on his fatty tissues.

When he emerges in the spring, however, gaunt and hungry, and with terribly tender feet, he concentrates on bugs, beetles, grubs and ants. He is decidedly short-tempered just at this time and doesn't care who knows it.

Later, as summer unfolds, he turns up his nose at bugs and beetles and gorges himself on berries. He knows what he wants, and what is definitely more important, exactly where to look for it.

THE BEAR has survived prehistoric animals like the sabre-toothed tiger and the woolly rhinoceros by some 30,000 years, depending for his existence all the while on his ability to find sustenance in small things, and his knowledge of botany.

Unless one has actually seen a bear in a blueberry patch, raking down "handfuls" of the succulent berries, he cannot conceive how so huge a creature could manipulate so minute a fruit.

As a root-digger, however, a bear is at his best. And he will uproot yards and yards of swampland in the hope of finding some wild arum roots, or Jack-in-the-pulpits. And a wild arum root, in case you don't know it, is one of the tangiest morsels imaginable. If you were to bite into one you would imagine you had crushed a vial of sulphuric acid. Mr. Bruin thinks nothing of it, however, and smacks his lips in delight.

THE skunk cabbage, so offensive to many noses, sends him into raptures of joy. His black nose wrinkling in ecstasy, he devours the leaves and greedily licks up every last vestige of the juice.

After that kind of bout it is only natural for him to like bees. And how he does gobble them down, nests and all, no matter how much they buzz and sting.

An orgy of ant-eating is likely to come next, by way as it were, of dessert. Planting his furry legs firmly in the nest he licks the ants off as they come scurrying up his limbs.

Acorns, too, are a favorite item of diet on a bear's menu. And he knows better than humans where to find them.

Not all roots are edible, of course, even to a bear. And the experienced bruin gives a wide berth to water hemlock, known only too well that the root of the purple-stemmed plant is deadly poison.

A Surprise Deal

Those who have seen the freedom with which American troops spend money will enjoy this story from India.

An American, having hired a tonga for a distance the ordinary fare for which would be half a rupee, magnanimously handed the driver a 50-rupee note.

The man shook his head violently and demanded 60.

"No," said the American, "that's enough. I shan't pay any more."

The Indian thereupon accepted the money and walked away, leaving the tonga and pony with the purchaser.

Penny Bank

Dear Penny Bankers:

The other afternoon I was in the Mezzanine of the Hudson's Bay and I saw some interesting little shows and pictures. There were several children watching, too, and I wondered if some of them were Penny Bankers.

Some of these tiny moving pictures showed what sad and evil things Hitler has done to Europe. There were little Gestapo rooms and prisons, but underneath were hidden rooms of people working against Hitler and risking their lives to fight these evils. And like the rhyme "Ten Little Niggers Sitting on a Fence" was a rhyme of "Ten Little Dutchmen." When the ten little Dutchmen were all killed, instead of no little Dutchmen left there were, quite suddenly, ten more little Dutchmen willing and anxious to work and die for Holland.

It isn't necessary or right to hate Hitler. You must hate the bad and cruel things he does. And if you hate those enough, you will work just as hard in your way as the people Hitler is hurting. And our way is so easy. We do not go to prison, or suffer or die because we won't fight for Hitler. All we have to do is give up a pleasure as often as we can —an ice cream cone, a chocolate bar, a moving picture, and put those pennies in our banks to buy stamps, because stamps mean guns and ships and airplanes and tanks and tools and more and more help to everyone who is working against the badness of Hitler.

COUSIN PENNY WISE.

Eye to Business

An Irish priest offered sixpence to the boy who could tell him who was the greatest man in history.

"Columbus," answered one boy. "George Washington," answered another.

"St. Patrick," shouted a bright little Jewish boy.

"The sixpence is yours," said the priest. "But why did you say St. Patrick?"

"Right down in my heart I knew it was Moses," said the Jewish boy, "but business is business."

She Knew

"Come come, Joan, surely you know if the world is round or square? Mary, tell her!"

"It's crooked, teacher," said Mary, darkly.
